MEXICO AND U.S. TO AWAIT COURT RULING

Try to Make Temporary Arrangement Pending Report of Tribunal

TO SAFEGUARD RIGHTS

U. S. Moves to Prevent Overt Acts Affecting Property Interests

Washington—An effort is being made by the Mexican and United States government to arrange what is known in diplomacy as a "modus vivendi" or temporary arrangements whereby the rights of both sides shall not be disturbed while an arbitration tribunal considers the merits of the case.

The United States government is willing to submit to the General Council of the attempt to confiscate claims commission all issues arising American oil properties in Mexico, but with the understanding that no overt act shall be committed in the interim which might prevent the restitution of property to lawful owners.

Two methods are being suggested to safeguard this phase of the problem. One is that the Mexican courts shall be asked to grant restraining orders in respect of each individual property and the other that the Mexican government shall give assurance of its intention to maintain a status quo while the questions are being decided. Already a number of American companies have applied for and obtained what are known as "amparos" which are equivalent to injunctions. General restraining orders are not customary in Mexican law, so every case will have to be tried on its merits and an injunction granted. Some of the dangers of this process so far as American oil companies are concerned is that it may involve an examination of proof of title and in the long run changes in government the proof of title is not always easy to obtain.

LIMIT ON COMMISSION

Another problem involved in any temporary arrangement pending arbitration is the question of the duration of the General Claims Commission. By treaty its life expires at the end of this year unless extended by mutual agreement. Both governments are disposed to extend the life of the commission for a term of years, but it has been suggested that the commission might better continue its work indefinitely without any time limit being imposed. The value of the commission is that it has superseded diplomatic channels in the handling of disputes on property rights and can by reason of its experience handle the claims much more expeditiously than the embassies here or in Mexico City.

EXAMINATION OF THE PROCEEDINGS

Examination of the proceedings of the commission thus far reveals the fact that its neutral umpire—a native of Holland—as well as the American and Mexican commissioners, are basing their briefs and decisions on the strict letter of international law. This has led to the belief that if the case were ever submitted to the arbitration of the claims commission, the largest question at issue would be one of fact as to title.

CONSIDER ARBITRATION

Meanwhile the senate is considering the adoption of a resolution favoring arbitration. There is little practical importance in the present situation except as a moral support for the legal side of the controversy. Both the Mexican and American governments are disposed to arbitrate. The question is how to arrange matters in the interim so that the case can go to arbitration. The difficulties of an agreement are as numerous as ever because they involve principles on which a long diplomatic correspondence has been conducted for nearly ten years. If an agreement on details could be secured in the protocol of submission there would be little for the arbitral tribunal to decide. Progress is being made, however, and the probabilities are that no crisis will develop in the immediate future.

"WATCH" For Them

Those little notices printed in the Lost and Found Columns. They unfold many an interesting story. Mr. L. M. Stenger, 925 N. Union Street, recently lost a watch which he valued as a keepsake. He asked us to publish a notice to the effect that a liberal reward would be paid to the finder of the watch. Mr. Stenger indicated at that time that he held out no hope for the return of the watch. But the finder was honest and kept close "watch" on the "Lost and Found" ads. This little ad returned the watch to the owner and secured a reward for the finder. Ad Taker Service 513.

Montanan Challenges Senate to Stand for or Against "Tyranny"

BULLETIN

Washington—(AP)—The senate foreign relations committee decided Wednesday not to make public the transcript of Secretary Kellogg's statement of two weeks ago on the Nicaraguan situation.

The senate was challenged Wednesday by Senator Wheeler, Democrat, Montana, "to take a stand either with our state department and its tyrannical or against it" on the Nicaraguan question.

In an address teeming with barbed shafts, aimed at both President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg, the Montanan also called on the senate foreign relations committee to hold a public hearing in which the whole subject "may be aired in the light of day" and declared members of the committee would be "re-elected in their duty if they fail to do this."

Accusing President Coolidge of wilfully withholding from congress the true facts as to Nicaragua, Senator Wheeler said the executive's recent message to congress showed that he had been misled in his dealings with Nicaragua. "No other more charitable statement could be made concerning such a message," he said.

Contending that Juan B. Sanchez, Liberal is the constitutional president of the Central American republic, the Montanan described the Conservative president, Adolfo Diaz, "the hand picked puppet of the United States government, despised by his own betrayed people, held in contempt by almost the whole Latin-American world and yet twice re-elected to the Nicaraguan presidency and safely-pinned there by American bayonets."

STEEL EARNINGS EXCEED ESTIMATES

Total of $199,004,741 Sets Peak in Peace Time Earnings of Corporation

New York—(AP)—Announcement by the United States Steel corporation of $199,004,741 total net earnings for 1926 establishing a new peak in peace time earnings, was viewed in Wall Street circles Wednesday as confirmation of prosperity predictions voiced last month by Elbert H. Gary, chairman of the board of directors.

The total profits, amounting $17,964,000 on common stock, not only were regarded as substantiating the prospects outlined by Mr. Gary when the board voted a 40 per cent stock dividend late in December, but were far in advance of optimistic preliminary estimates in the financial district.

The figure exceeded that of 1925 by $33,465,277, when $5.10 per share was paid, and surpasses all previous totals except those for the world war period when the volume of business was boosted by arms and munitions orders. Tuesday dividend declarations were for the usual quarterly amount of 1 1/2 per cent on both the common and preferred shares.

MAY CREATE EPISCOPAL DIOCESE AT EAU CLAIRE

Milwaukee—(AP)—A resolution approving the creation of the Eau Claire diocese of the Episcopal church, and recommending that such a diocese be set apart, was adopted Wednesday by a unanimous vote by clerical and lay delegates to the eightieth annual convention of the Milwaukee diocese of the Episcopal church.

The proposals will be presented for the approval of the national convention which meets in Washington in October, 1928. Mrs. Forbes Snowden, Milwaukee, was nominated for reelection as president of the Women's auxiliary of the Milwaukee diocese. Other officers nominated include Mrs. E. B. Hand, Racine, third vice president, and Mrs. A. Peabody, Madison, United Thank offering treasurer.

MOTHER FINDS BODY HANGING FROM RAFTER

Village Authorities Say Boy's Head Accidentally Fell into Noose

Paul Pennings, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Pennings, Little Chute, was found dead at 4:45 Tuesday afternoon in the garage at the rear of his parents' home, his body suspended above the floor by a wire tied to a rafter in the ceiling.

A more thorough investigation following an investigation last evening into the circumstances surrounding the tragedy, it was announced by James Gerrits, village marshal, and Dr. Raymond Revold, that death was due to strangulation and was accidental.

Neither a thorough investigation probably will be conducted, according to John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney. No coroner's inquest had been called by noon Wednesday.

MOTHER FINDS BODY

The youth's body was discovered by his mother, who had gone to the garage to find out what kept her son there so long. He had left the house about an hour before, and Mrs. Pennings had expected him to return sooner.

On entering the garage, she saw the body hanging in the air, his feet about two feet above the floor. An insulated electric wire, attached to a rafter, held the body in space. A loop in the lower end of the wire was around the youth's neck.

Reports circulated Wednesday that he had committed suicide were scouted by the Little Chute marshal. He said the young man probably slipped while standing on the running board of his automobile, and while he had held on to the wire, and that his head dropped through the loop as he fell. The marshal said the youth no doubt had been swinging back and forth on the wire, and that he might have slipped either at the beginning or end of a swing.

BROTHER HUNG WIRE

The wire had been tied to the rafter several weeks by a brother. A loop had been made in the end of the wire, on which to hang electric lights while work was being done on the automobile. The loop was about 16 inches in diameter.

Neither his hands or feet were tied, and authorities are puzzled to know why he did not free himself. Pennings had been employed at The Waterloo shop, 104 N. Oneida-st., Appleton, until Christmas. He became ill at that time and had not worked since. He had been employed there for a year.

PLAYED VIOLIN

He had spent the entire day at home. Before going out to the garage Tuesday afternoon about 4 o'clock, he had been inside his home playing the violin. About 4 o'clock he put on a coat and cap and told his mother he was going out to the garage to repair his car. He did not expect to be gone long.

Failing to return in about 45 minutes, she neither grew frightened, knowing that her son had been in the habit of permitting his auto to run in the garage with the doors and windows closed.

Fearing that he may have been overcome by gas, she went to the garage and discovered the body hanging by the wire.

Besides his parents, he is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Rudolph Vander Tuiton of Stevens Point, Mrs. J. Warner of Minneapolis, and Mrs. Arnold Strick and Miss Margaret Pennings of Little Chute; and eight brothers, William of Phoenix, Henry of Phillips, and Albert, Arthur, John, James and Wilbert all of Little Chute.

Peaches' Mother Takes Stand In Browning Suit

Courthouse, White Plains, N. Y.—(AP)—Mother Carolyn Heenan and her mother friend of five years, Mrs. Catherine Mayer, Wednesday came to the aid of Mrs. Frances (Peaches) Heenan Browning, and added their testimony to the 16-year-old girl's, in an attempt to show that her six months of marriage with Edward W. Browning, the wealthy New York banker, was a life of quarrels and many fights. Mrs. Heenan was the third witness of the day, following Mrs. Mayer, the friend and companion and at times the house guest of the two women who lived with Mr. Browning.

Now Senators May See A Battle As Is A Battle

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Rumblings of warfare, involving the flappers, the young women and those not so young, enrolled on the senate pay sheet, are beginning to disturb the peace and quiet of the senate office building. The caucus bell is furnished by a group of 12 reserve seats in the senate galleries where the office help frequently foregather during the luncheon hour, and sometimes well beyond—to root for "the boss" when the tilting in the senate is sharp.

Arrayed on one side in the feud are the even dozen women, secretaries to senators—one for each of the reserved chairs—and on the other the legion of committee clerks and stenographers and clerks doing duty in the senatorial offices.

Unlike the senate, this brigade does not believe in arbitration if the conversations frequently heard in the corridors and offices furnish any index.

"It gives me the pain," confides one fair bobbed head on the fourth floor to a visitors from the dim recesses of the first. "I was over there the other day sitting in the public gallery, mind you, and I saw that fat (referring by name to a secretary) coming down the steps, preventing herself and smiling to the right and to the left as she pushed aside old women and old men to get to her seat. I could have just killed her!"

"I'd like to see her put me out," boasts Miss Fourth Floor after telling how a woman secretary had ejected one clerk. "And my dear, when this poor girl got to the floor she found two policemen. Why she was scared stiff!"

"I'm going to tell my senator," they both chorus and so the threats go from group to group.

If they are ever executed a lot of senators will be able when it is all over to qualify as arbiters in worse disputes than that with Mexico.

BOWLING TOURNEY OPENS AT RACINE

More Than 1,150 Teams Are Entered from All Sections of Wisconsin

Racine—(AP)—Wisconsin's silver jubilee state bowling tournament was officially opened here at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon when Mayor Armstrong tossed a special silver bowling ball down the polished alley.

The opening of the twenty-fifth classic of the Badger association, there being speeches by Mayor Armstrong and President Max Lau of the state association and others.

Big led's alleys, which will witness the tourney lasting more than a month, have been placed in perfect condition for the affair. More than 200 sets of new pins are ready to be shoved onto the firing line. The first squad Wednesday afternoon included city officials, policemen, firemen and other city employees. These introduced the tourney to the following by more than 1,100 teams from all sections of the state, the total team entry to the state meet being in excess of 1,150.

YALE STUDENT TAKES HIS LIFE BY HANGING

New Haven, Conn.—(AP)—Richard Star Untermeyer, a sophomore at Yale university, took his life by hanging in his room in Welch hall Wednesday. The body was found by a janitor who went to the room. The student was a son of Louis Untermeyer, writer and poet, and of Mrs. Jean Star Untermeyer, widely known in the literary world. He was born on Dec. 26, 1907.

Young Untermeyer left no letters or message in his room. Dr. James C. Grenway, medical director of the university health bureau, who knew Untermeyer, said that the student was normal in every sense and he could not attribute any reason for the act.

ISSUE 69 INDICTMENTS FOR DRY LAW VIOLATORS

Milwaukee—(AP)—Sixty-nine indictments all charging violation of the prohibition laws, were reported Wednesday to federal Judge P. A. Geiser by the federal grand jury of the Eastern district of Wisconsin, which has been in session here for several weeks.

Donaghey Is Dismissed As Highway Head

State Commission Names H. J. Kuelling, Milwaukee, to Fill Position

Madison—(AP)—John T. Donaghey, for 16 years an employee of the state highway department, and since June, 1924, chief engineer of the highway commission, was left without a position Tuesday when the commission elected H. J. Kuelling, Milwaukee, former construction engineer of the commission to his place.

Mr. Donaghey, after the election late Tuesday afternoon said he would have a statement giving his position on the matter "in a few days."

At the time of the announcement of Mr. Donaghey's discharge from the chief engineer's office, A. C. Anderson, Menominee, announced his resignation as chairman of the commission, retaining his membership on the body, however.

Mr. Donaghey, maintenance engineer until June 1924, succeeded A. R. Hirst, in the chief engineer's post, when the latter resigned to make the race for governor against Senator-elect John J. Blaine.

Mr. Kuelling took office as the new state highway engineer Wednesday and will immediately take over the annual road show which is conducted by the state highway department, and assist in the construction of the new highway program.

WOULD NOT RESIGN

Commissioner D. S. Welch of Baraboo called the meeting of the highway commission to order in the capitol annex Tuesday afternoon and immediately it was voted to ask for the resignation of Mr. Donaghey. The state highway engineer was summoned to appear before the commission and asked to resign, which, according to the commissioners, he refused to do.

The following voted for the removal of Mr. Donaghey and the appointment of Mr. Kuelling: Commissioner Welch, Commissioner E. F. Dean, state geologist, Commissioner George Stauffer, mayor of Portage, and Dean F. E. Turney, of the school of engineering. Commissioner Anderson voted in the negative.

The personnel of the highway commission which made the changes is now the same as it was under the Blaine regime, as the successor, Mr. Anderson, appointed by Governor Zimmerman does not take office until next month.

The new commissioner is well known throughout the state, particularly in Milwaukee where he served as Milwaukee-co highway commissioner from 1911 to 1917 and built most of the concrete roads in the county.

INCOME TAX REVENUE OVER TWO BILLION

Total Exceeds Federal Collected Rates

Washington, D. C.—(AP)—Income tax collections for 1926 amounted to $2,172,127,321, it was announced Tuesday by the bureau of internal revenue.

Although reduced rates provided by the new revenue law were in effect for the entire year, the total was higher than that for 1925 when collections were $1,825,704,133.

Corporation taxes yielded $1,256,793,235 of last year's total, while $915,334,085 was collected from individuals, more being paid in by both corporations and individuals on income taxes last year than in 1925.

New York state again led in collections, paying more than one-fourth of the total of last year's receipts, or $618,415,051. The totals for Wisconsin collections jumped from $26,276,193 in 1925 to $28,294,436 in 1926. There was even a larger increase in Michigan. Totals in 1925 were $102,353,814 and $117,686,071 in 1926.

HECK CHARGES WASTE OF LAND FOR SCHOOLS

Loss of 5,570,718 Acres Due to Negligence, Racine Senator States

Madison—(AP)—Charging waste and negligence in the leasing of the state's school lands Max W. Heck, Racine, former senator and chairman of the interim committee on taxation, Wednesday declared that the legislature must levy an additional fund of $2,000,000 to meet the loss of 5,570,718 acres of land which has been granted at various times by the federal government.

Speaking before a joint session of both branches of the state legislature, Mr. Heck gave a detailed account of the land grants made to common, university and normal schools, tracing it from the origin of the state to the present time. Common school grants totalled 1,705,622 acres; the university and agricultural school 230,000 acres and the normal schools 3,533,170.

"Practically all of these grants," he said, "have been wasted and thrown away through imprudent legislative measures. We can get nowhere trying to find out whose fault it is but the fact remains and this legislature faces the responsibility of a levy or an additional fund of $2,000,000 because of the loss."

The interim committee chairman then took up the committee's proposal for a full-time board of the public affairs to take the place of the present part-time board. He expressed doubt as to whether the present board is "constitutionally created as it is not a judiciary or executive function."

"The full time organization would have a great influence toward economy because of its coordination in the work of the various departments," he said.

FATHER MAY SUE FOR CUSTODY OF CHILDREN

Superior—(AP)—Legal efforts may be made this week by George Monaghan, Duluth, to regain possession of his two children, whom his former wife, Mrs. Harvey Lindner, Superior, spirited away from their school at Last Grand Forks early this week. It was learned Wednesday morning.

Mrs. Lindner declared at her home Wednesday that she would retain possession of the children until the court ruled otherwise. She said that she had as much right to the possession of the children as her former husband, according to the terms of their divorce, which stipulated that the children should board out and should not be taken out of the city or state except on short vacations.

FOUR YOUTHS KILLED IN CAR-TRAIN CRASH

Aberdeen, S. D.—(AP)—Four young men, returning from a dance at Marvin, were instantly killed when the coupe in which they were riding crashed into Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul train No. 18, the Columbian, near Marvin early Wednesday.

The four were returning from a dance at Big Stone and were going to a farm southwest of there where they were employed. It is believed the cause of their closed car was so badly frost-bitten they did not see the approaching train.

MINNESOTA HAS BRUNT OF BITING COLD WAVE

St. Paul—(AP)—Biting cold tightened its grip on the northwest Wednesday, with the brunt of the wave striking Minnesota, where Brainerd reported 39 below. Temperatures in other parts of the state ranged from that figure up to 12 below at Mankato, the warmest spot in the state. The Twin Cities report 21 below.

COFFEY STILL SILENT

Denies Broken Bat Found in Camp Was Used to Murder Wife

BULLETIN

Madison—(AP)—Impliments which the police believe might have been used by William Coffey in digging a rude grave for his bigamous wife, Mrs. Hattie Sherman Hales, were found in the basement of the confessed slayer's home Wednesday. A spoon, a pick-axe and a stained straw mat were among the articles found. The spade was covered with clay, according to the police, and was rolled up with a tent and a folding cot. Mrs. Coffey, who accompanied police on the search of the house, said the implements had been placed in the basement without her knowledge. The mat, unrolled, displayed several long dark brown streaks that police declared bloodstains.

Mauston—(AP)—Iowa and Wisconsin authorities Wednesday were still wrestling with the problem of where Mrs. Hattie Hales Coffey was slain by William N. Coffey, her bigamist husband, confessed forger, ex-convict and former welfare worker.

District Attorney R. M. Orchard of Grant-co. will not act on issuance of a warrant for Coffey until he hears from Sheriff F. J. Kennedy of Dubuque-co. who is here attempting to determine whether Coffey killed his wife in Wisconsin or Iowa.

Sheriff Kennedy and District Attorney Allan Kane of Dubuque-co. arrived here Tuesday, but failed to shake Coffey's story that he killed his wife in a tent pitched on the Wisconsin bank of the Mississippi river while they were on their honeymoon Oct. 13.

Further questioning? Believing that Eagle Point park, Dubuque, was the scene of the slaying, the Iowa officers will further question Coffey Wednesday, it was learned from District Attorney Robert Clark of Mauston. District Attorney Clark said Wednesday it had not been decided whether Coffey would be taken to Grant-co. to show officers where he said he killed his bride of four weeks.

District Attorney Orchard stated he will abide by the decision of Sheriff Kennedy in determining whether he issues a murder warrant. Mr. Orchard said Wednesday that it does issue a warrant, he probably will charge Coffey with first degree murder.

His difficult problem he believes will be in establishing the "corpus delicti"—the body of the crime. No trace of the body of the 35-year-old former Le Crosse woman has been found along the shores of the Mississippi river into which, Coffey confessed, he threw it the night of the slaying.

Sheriff Opens Inquiry Sheriff Bert Moore of Grant-co. conducted an inquiry Tuesday in an attempt to locate the body, and had not reported the result Wednesday to District Attorney Orchard. The sheriff questioned persons above and below the interstate bridge near where Coffey says he camped the night of the slaying.

Word of Coffey's troubles have brought additional details of his many-sided life. The latest information contained on page 17 col. 5

PLAN STATE TENNIS GROUP AT OSHKOSH

Oshkosh—(AP)—Plans for a state tennis association, with membership consisting of all the leading clubs of Wisconsin were outlined at a meeting of the Oshkosh tennis club Tuesday evening.

H. G. Peterson, past president of the Oshkosh club, has originated a plan for a league of clubs that would lead to a state closed tennis tournament. The association would be the first state-wide organization of this kind. It would, under the plan advanced, be governed by a board consisting of two representatives from each club and the organization as a whole would have membership in the Western Lawn Tennis association.

Seven cities have designated their institution of joining such an association and a meeting to consider its definite organization will be held in Oshkosh in February.

HE LOOKED HUNGRY AND HE PROVED THAT HE WAS

Superior—(AP)—George Spindler, vacuum cleaner salesman, thin and hungry looking, can eat 12 waffles in one sitting. He did it in a Superior restaurant to the amazement of Clare L. Wildner, restaurateur, who promised to pay for all over six. Spindler says he can eat more than a dozen. The waffles are of ordinary size, with maple sugar and butter.

HIGHWAY PROGRAM UNCERTAIN AS TAX SQUABBLE IMPENDS

Only Three Improvement Projects Certain at This Time. Report

Due to the tax controversy between Appleton and Outagamie-co., the county's highway improvement program for 1927 has not been definitely fixed. It is reported at the office of the county highway commission. The complete program will be drawn up at the February meeting of the county board of supervisors. It is expected. At this time only three roads are certain of having work done on them next summer. They are state trunk 1, a stretch of approximately four miles on highway 76 between Greenville and Stephentown will be paved and pavement also will be laid on highway 76 south to the Wisconsin line, a distance of approximately five miles. About one mile and a half on highway 18, west of Dale, also will be paved.

A $100,000 bond issue, authorized by the county board at its November session, will finance the first project. The last two will be paid by the state.

The county roads to come under the program have not yet been selected because the county board has not determined how much money will be spent for highway purposes this year. At least six projects will be considered. They probably would have been paved had it not been for the tax dispute. It is reported. Now it is doubtful whether all this work will be carried out this year.

One of the largest projects formerly agreed upon was the improvement of Wisconsin ave. in Appleton. Highway 15 has been rerouted over this street, and it was planned to lay pavement there next summer. The county appropriated $20,000 as its share of the cost. Whether the county board will rescind its action authorizing this appropriation next month, as a result of the tax squabble, is a matter of conjecture. Construction of a viaduct on this street, the cost of which will be borne by the North Western railroad, the traction company and the city, also is planned.

A stretch of approximately 2,000 feet on county trunk J in the town of Kaukauna, and a similar distance on county trunk Q in the same town, might be paved, as might Blackfoot connecting highway 15 and Wisconsin-ave in Kaukauna city. Highway 55 through Little Chute and county trunk Z in Combined Locks also are under consideration, it is reported.

CITY SEALER INSPECTS DRUGSTORES IN CITY

OFFER REWARDS FOR RECOVERY OF 3 CARS

Rewards of $25 each are offered for information leading to the recovery of three automobiles stolen in Wisconsin the latter part of October. The police department is informed. The rewards will be paid only if the cars are not burned or damaged beyond repair.

A Studebaker special six is one of the cars sought by authorities. Its serial number is 321555 and the motor number is 70920. It was equipped with a Decker enclosure. The car was stolen Oct. 23 at Superior.

A car stolen at Milwaukee Oct. 27, one which authorities so far have been unable to recover, is a Hupmobile touring, serial number 96015 and motor number 57310. It is a 1925 model.

The third missing machine is a Hupmobile touring car stolen Oct. 27 at Superior. The serial number is 143563 and the motor number is 144912. It is a 1924 sport model.

7 PUBLIC SCHOOLS MAKE 100 PER CENT THRIFT RECORDS

Children Have More Than $24,000 to Credit in School Bank

Seven schools had 100 per cent records in the school savings account, Thrift, Inc., for the week ending Jan. 18, and 96 1/2 per cent of the students enrolled in the system deposited money. Perfect records were made by Columbus, Franklin, Fourth ward, McKinley, Richmond, Lincoln and First ward schools. Of the 3,119 pupils enrolled, 3,025 deposited $715.50 in the week. There were 29 withdrawals of $126.08 and interest credited during the week was $13.74. The balance on deposit was $24,225.15.

STORK WINS RACE WITH DEATH, CITY PHYSICIAN SHOWS

487 Births and 289 Deaths Recorded in Appleton Last Year

The Grim Reaper was a poor second in the 1926 race with the stork who brought 487 babies to Appleton. Only 289 deaths were recorded, 188 less than the number of births, according to the records of Dr. William C. Felton, city health officer. Dan Cupid managed to get his arrows through the hearts of 156 couples during the year.

An examination of the 1926 report shows that deaths that year totaled 263, births 506, and marriages 175.

Banner months for the stork were January with 57 births and July with 51 births. The smallest number of births was recorded in June with only 30. Births in other months were: February, 28; March, 49; April 47; May 44; August, 33; September, 31; October, 36; November, 31; December, 35.

In September, 31 births and only 12 deaths were recorded. In July the same number of births were reported but only 21 deaths occurred. These were the months in which the largest gains were made. November with 36 deaths was the busiest month for the reaper. Deaths in other months were: January, 31; February, 18; March, 31; April, 31; May, 31; June, 21; July, 21; August, 20; September, 12; October, 14; November, 36; December, 22.

The city physician made 352 visits to homes of poor and was visited at his office by 283 persons, his records show. The greatest number of calls, 51, was made by the doctor in May. Burial permits issued during the year totaled 543, 54 more than the number of deaths, showing that many bodies were brought here for burial.

PART-TIME STUDENTS MUST MAKE UP WORK

Part-time students at Appleton vocational school will have to make up back work missed through absences of more than two days, according to J. G. Pfeil, truancy officer. All but one of the 12 or 15 students interviewed by the officer about the back work agreed to make arrangements to do the work another day. In the week that is, come for two days instead of the one they are scheduled to attend. The boy who refused to make up the time, will be compelled to go to the school, Mr. Pfeil said. His employer has agreed to discharge the boy until he makes arrange, n's with the school to make up his work.

to George H. Beckley, secretary of the Appleton Building and Loan association, who reports that the number of applications for financial aid for building and remodeling homes is larger for the first three weeks of January than for the same period last year.

Mr. Beckley also reported $31,200 in paid up shares and $69,700 in matured value of installment notes for the first three weeks of January. Copies of the annual report were being sent to stockholders who could not attend the annual meeting last week.

VACCINATION ONLY SMALLPOX BARRIER

Modern Science Has Discovered Nothing Else to Prevent Disease

Madison — Declaring that there is nothing yet in modern science to prevent smallpox except vaccination, the educational committee of the State Medical Society issued a statement favoring the vaccination of young people to prevent epidemics.

"In a well vaccinated community there is no material for smallpox to consume," declares the bulletin. "American people are optimistic by nature and much inclined towards independence in their manner of living. This spirit seems to pervade our native born citizenry in the matter of vaccination against smallpox. Many of our states, particularly of the middle west, have repealed the usual compulsory laws upon the vaccination of school children and left it to the judgment of parents except in time of epidemics when exclusion of the unvaccinated from the school may be required."

"As might be expected, a considerable proportion of our young adults and the coming generation may remain unvaccinated. This is particularly true of the boys and girls living in the country and smaller towns to whom no special inducements have been offered in the way of vaccination campaigns. Many of them move to the cities later in life and go to swell the unvaccinated population there. Reviewed from a statistical standpoint, it is apparent that an open field has been left in these unvaccinated states for the ravages of smallpox. For instance in 1921 and 1922 there were 226 deaths from smallpox in Kansas City, Mo.; 264 deaths in Denver in the same years; 163 deaths in Detroit, Mich. in 1924; 365 deaths in Minneapolis in 1924 and 1925; and 87 deaths in Milwaukee in 1925 and 23 deaths in Los Angeles in 1925. The country tributary to these communities also suffered from the disease. The history of these epidemics show that they are subdued only by a well-nigh total vaccination of the entire population.

"It is plainly apparent that smallpox has not lost its old-time characteristic feature of mild epidemics, interspersed with deadly attacks such as were universally present in the days before the discovery of vaccination. There is nothing yet in modern science to prevent smallpox except vaccination. Vaccination is a communal measure as well as a measure for the benefit of the individual. In a well vaccinated community there is no material for smallpox to consume and no cases to further spread the disease to others. Vaccination is as necessary now as it ever was in our past history and should be resorted to by all individuals both for the protection of themselves and to save others from contracting the disease. In 1924 well vaccinated Massachusetts had 12 cases and 2 deaths, while California, in part vaccinated, had 9,425 cases and 56 deaths."

APPLETON STUDENT ON MILITARY SCHOOL BAND

William G. Thiede, a second classman at St. John Military academy at Delafield, has been honored by appointment to the school band. Mr. Thiede, 352 N. Ida-st., St. John Military Academy band is known through-

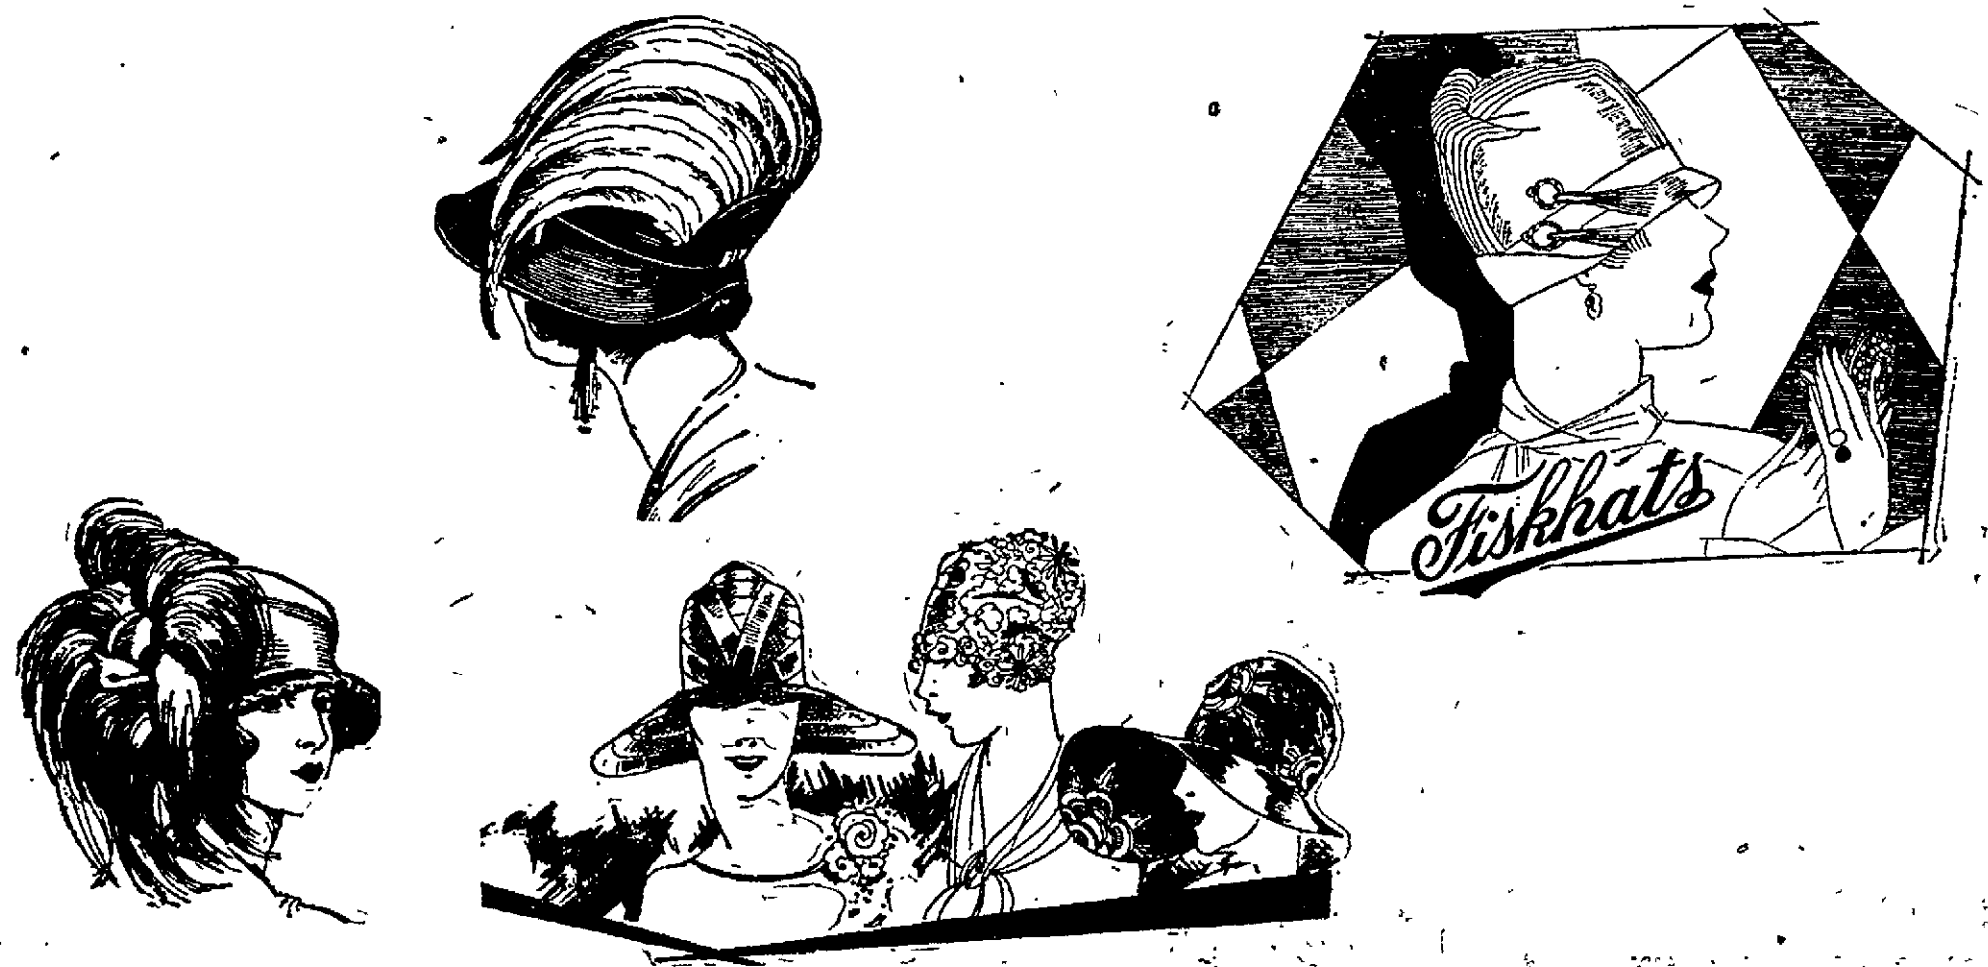

past history and should be resorted to by all individuals both for the protection of themselves and to save others from contracting the disease. In 1924 well vaccinated Massachusetts had 12 cases and 2 deaths, while California, in part vaccinated, had 9,425 cases and 56 deaths."

EARLY TRAINING FOR CRIPPLES IS FAVORED BY CLUB

Wisconsin Association for Disabled, Would Sponsor
Legislation

Legislation which will set machinery into operation for the early training of crippled children of the state were discussed at the first annual meeting of the Wisconsin Association for the Crippled at Milwaukee. Mrs. S. C. Shannon, representing the board of education and Herb Hellig, representing the Appleton vocational school and the Lions club, attended the meeting.

At the present time the state makes provision for the deaf, dumb and blind, but proper regulation and opportunities are not provided for cripples, according to Mrs. Shannon. It is the purpose of the society to urge laws which will enable cripples to procure advantages and education to fit themselves for the battle with life.

TRAIN EARLY.
These children must be trained while their minds are still plastic, it was held. The law provides for vocational education for children between the ages of 14 to 18. Crippled children cannot attend the public school and when they reach the age of 14 they are behind the normal child in education. For this reason some legislation must be provided so that crippled children can be trained earlier in life. The children must be separated from other normal boys and girls because they are sensitive about their condition.

A preliminary survey indicates there are more than 8,000 cripples in state at present and perhaps many more throughout the rural districts that have not been counted. It is the proposal of the society to hold clinics in every county in the state. Cripples will be given medical attention and advice.

In this manner an economic loss will be changed into an economic asset. It was brought out at the meeting that Wisconsin is far behind other states in this movement and it is the aim of the association to foster the work until Wisconsin can take its place among the leaders of the movement.

Legislation for Education of Crippled Children was the topic of an address by Edgar F. Allen, president of the International society for Crippled Children, at the afternoon session.

Value of Private Organizations in Promoting State Programs for Crippled Children and Disabled Adults was the subject of an address by O. M. Sullivan, state director of reeducation, St. Paul, Minn.; Mrs. Melba Roach Tippet of Green Bay discussed this subject. John M. Callahan, state superintendent of public instruction gave an address on "Proper Legislation." Other speakers were O. J. Dorr, Fond du Lac; H. O. Eiken, Antigo; Miss Elsa Dudenhofer, Milwaukee Children's hospital; Miss M. Elson, Wisconsin General hospital, Madison.

MAY OPEN BUS LINE TO DALE, FREMONT

Northern Transportation
Company Seeks Permission from Commission

Application has been made to the railroad commission by the Northern Transportation company to operate a bus line between Appleton and Dale and Fremont by way of Highway 18, according to a letter received by Mayor A. C. Rule from the commission. The commission asked the mayor to file objections which the city might have.

Mayor Rule has answered with a letter asking for the names of the streets upon which the company intends to operate and stated that the city did not wish to allow any more busses to load or unload passengers at the corner of College-ave and Oneida-st, because this corner is already congested.

Roy Gallagher and George Marks are the owners of the Northern Transportation company which now operates between Oshkosh and Stevens Point.

Treat COLDS Here —get quick relief!

The quickest and surest way to get rid of a cold is to destroy the cold germs clinging to the membranes of the nose and throat that cause the trouble.

Klorex, the new scientific cold treatment, is highly recommended by physicians and druggists because it works on just this principle. Klorex is a powerful antiseptic cream that releases a pleasant, healing vapor when applied in the nostrils. This vapor instantly penetrates to the innermost parts of the nose and throat, attacks the cold germs, soothes and heals the inflamed tissues, makes your head as clear as a bell, and quickly gives complete relief from the most disagreeable cold.

Get a 50c tube of Klorex from your nearest druggist today. He'll not only recommend it, but will sell it on a money-back guarantee. Don't forget the name—KLOREX.

CATHOLIC SOCIETIES MEET IN OSHKOSH

Catholic Central societies in Oshkosh, Neenah, Menasha, New London, Chilton, Kaukauna, Appleton and Menominee, Mich., will be represented at a district meeting of the Catholic Central Verein in Oshkosh on Jan. 30. The meeting is to be held in St. Mary auditorium.

Cash prizes of $200 are being offered in the oratorical contest for young men and women in connection with the annual convention of the society at Racine from May 8 to 10, according to Henry Schnitz, past state president. The convention of the Catholic Women's league and of the young ladies section of the latter organization will be held at the same time.

CHAIRMEN PREPARE PLANS FOR FATHER, SON WEEK PROGRAM

Appleton Will Observe Period
from Feb. 13 to 20, Club
Announces

Further plans for Father and Son week in Appleton, from Feb. 13 to 20, were made at a meeting of committee chairmen after the regular session of the Y. M. C. A. club Monday evening at the Y. M. C. A. The club is sponsoring the week and the committees are composed of its members.

At the regular meeting of the club H. L. Post of the Pettibone-Peabody Co. spoke on Business Problems Which We Have to Meet. He told of changes in every type of business almost yearly and urged his audience to be prepared to meet the changes as they come, in order to keep their business up with the times.

At the chairman meeting the merchants' committee reported that its members would visit the merchants this week to request them to decorate their windows appropriately for the week which starts Saturday, Feb. 12. The church committee announced that programs are being arranged in each church for the week and these will all be completed by Friday, Feb. 11. Other announcements were that Judge Henry Grass of Green Bay, will be one of the speakers, and that the high school band will give a concert in Lawrence chapel the evening the boy mayor is installed.

BALLARD WANTS TO PUT STATE MARK ON STATE OWNED CARS

Too Much Private Use of Vehicles, Property Superintendent Avers

Madison—(AP)—A bill to replace conspicuous license plates on state-owned cars, will probably be introduced in the present legislature under the auspices of Clinton B. Ballard, state superintendent of public property.

Reports have come to the superintendent, he said, that state employees have been using state-owned cars for hunting and fishing trips, Sunday tours, and even "petting parties."

At the present time, state-owned vehicles cannot be distinguished from privately owned cars. Mr. Ballard proposes to have a bill introduced in the legislature that will compel all state cars to be marked "STATE OF WISCONSIN PROPERTY," or bear a red and white license plate. Up until two years ago the red and white license plates were required, but in the 1925 session of the legislature a bill passed that did away with all distinguishing marks and licenses.

"If we label all state cars so that they are the property of the state I don't believe that we will see any more of the running around the state on hunting and fishing trips and the like," Mr. Ballard said.

Mr. Ballard stated that Governor Zimmerman is in accord with such a move and that he will sign a bill of this kind. An inventory to determine how many cars the state owns is now being taken by Mr. Ballard's office, and after it is completed efforts will be made to find how each car is used.

Mr. Ballard expressed his preference for a mileage allowance for state employees, allowing them to use their own cars instead of those owned by the state, but said that the licensing proposal might suffice.

DANGER HOUR FOR MOTORISTS 5 TO 6

Most Accidents Happen in Last Hour of Afternoon, Report Shows

New York — The period between five and six in the afternoon is the most dangerous hour of driving in the day, according to the findings of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce which conducted a survey through 1926 in co-operation with newspapers.

Of 1107 accident cases studied, 116 occurred between five and six. The second most dangerous hour was between seven and eight in the evening when 109 accidents occurred.

Officials who attempted to interpret the figures and find the causes behind them blame fatigue for the huge number of accidents which occur in the late afternoon.

The officials say that carelessness probably causes most of the morning accidents between ten and eleven, the most dangerous morning hour of driving.

Saturday and Sunday were found to be the days of greater motor fatalities. However, officials say that, as far as the average accident risk per car is concerned it is probable that the risk is no greater on these days. Sunday has a fatality total 23 per cent higher than Monday, the low day, which is an increase probably not as great as the extra volume of traffic on Sunday, say the investigators.

COMMITTEE MEETS SOON TO DISCUSS CAMP SITE

Plans for improvements at the campsite in Allouez park will be made at a meeting of the public grounds and buildings committee within the next week, according to Alderman Wenzel Hassman, chairman. At a recent meeting of the common council $10,000 was appropriated for improving the camp.

New benches and tables are being made and will be installed in the park in spring, according to Mr. Hassman. Many new directing arrows are being made and will be placed as markers on the highways directing tourists to the campsite. Other improvements include the erection of a service station on the camp grounds and better kitchen facilities, including several open fire places.

Farming Is One Of Big Industries In Nicaragua

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington — Today's lessons is about Nicaragua, where hell is likely to start popping momentarily.

Nicaragua, bounded by Honduras on the north and Costa Rica on the south, has an area of 49,200 square miles and a population, according to the last available figures, of 635,119. The capital is Managua, a city of 60,342 souls, and the largest city is Leon, with about 70,000.

Two mountain ranges traverse the country. On the plateau life is fairly pleasant, but on the coast and in the lowlands it is altogether too hot. The dry season runs from December to April and the rainy season from May to November in the western section of the country, but in the eastern part it rains all the year around.

FOOD AND EXPORTS

Nicaragua exports coffee, cabinet woods, rubber, sugar, bananas, gold silver and hides. She grows tobacco, cotton, cacao, maize and wheat. Her principal items of food are maize and beans.

Agriculture and mining are the chief industries. Corn is the principal crop, but most of it is eaten at home. Sugar production is greater than in any other Central American state. Coffee represents 27 per cent of total exports and sugar 22 per cent. Production of gold varies. It arose to a high mark of 20 per cent of the export total in 1915.

The educational system is not so bad. Free primary education is compulsory for children between the ages of 5 and 14. Facilities are good for free higher instruction.

Nicaragua declared her independence from Spain along with the other Central American provinces in 1821 and was part of the Federation of Central America, which blew up.

The republic is governed by a constitution proclaimed in 1911. Legislative is vested in a Congress composed of a Senate and Chamber of Deputies. The country is divided into departments slightly similar to our states. The departments are represented at Managua by one deputy for every 15,000 inhabitants and one senator for every two deputies. Deputies are elected for four years and senators for six years. As in this country, the Senate has the most prestige; deputies must be 25 years old and senators 40.

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION

The president is elected by a majority popular vote to serve four years. He must be a native citizen of Nicaragua and over 30 years of age. If no candidate receives a majority vote in the election, the Congress meets in joint session to select a president from the two candidates polling the largest vote. A vice president is chosen similarly and simultaneously. If the president fails to function the vice president takes over the duties of his office.

The president has a cabinet consisting of six secretaries of state, for government and police, foreign relations, public instruction, treasury and public credit, war and marine and justice and public works.

The highest judicial body is the national supreme court, composed of five magistrates. There are three courts of appeal, sitting at Granada,

Leon and Bluefields, as well as various minor courts.

The normal peace-time army consists of 400 men and 30,000 reserve troops. One year of military service is compulsory. The navy consists of eight small steamboats, manned with guns and ordinarily used to prevent smuggling.

Under the constitution, all foreigners enjoy the civil rights of Nicaraguans and are governed by the same laws and authorities. They are subject to the same taxes as Nicaraguans and may not make claims or demand indemnities in cases where Nicaraguans could not do so. Appeal to diplomatic channels is forbidden except in cases of denial of justice. A foreigner is banned from the country who acts in violation of this provision and whose claim is not brought to a friendly settlement.

WIFE CHARGES PARENTS STOLE SON'S AFFECTION

Oconto—(AP)—Mr. and Mrs. Isadore Miller, are made defendants in a $25,000 damage suit filed in court here by Mrs. Loreta Miller, who charges the couple alienated the affections of her husband, who is their son.

The plaintiff, wife of Benjamin Miller, who established a store here in 1924, charges that they lived with his parents and that her mother-in-law had complete control over her husband and alienated the latter's affections from his wife. She charged that finally she was ordered out of the Miller home and that the husband chose to remain with his parents.

HEALTH TALKS

By J. A. PANNECK, D. C. Palmer Chiropractor and Writer

The purpose of this article is to give information that may prove beneficial to you.

The "marvelous" recoveries through Chiropractic, from a multitude of chronic diseases of the lungs, stomach, heart, kidneys, bowels; in fact afflictions in every part of the body, are quite generally known. Due to the fact that in the beginning of the science, people with chronic conditions turned to Chiropractors as "the last resort" after all other methods had failed, thus Chiropractic has been established through success in mastering those chronic ailments, to-wit: such that were classed as incurable by the old school of doctors.

In some sections the public as a whole, as yet, are not aware of the fact that Chiropractic is efficient in acute disease—such as Flu, Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Pleurisy, Measles, Scarlet Fever, Whooping Cough, Appendicitis, Colds, etc.

To convey some idea of Chiropractic efficiency in acute disease, as an example, we will mention Pneumonia—that dreaded disease—under our care. If taken a reasonable time after the onset, this disease is checked in from 12 to 48 hours, and before the ninth day crisis. Health is your greatest asset and these facts should be of vital interest to you.

The fact that I am asked these questions almost daily is responsible for me deciding to put on an educational campaign to better acquaint our people with the truth about Chiropractic.

STATE SECOND IN ALUMINUM PLANTS

Wisconsin Is Topped in Industry by Ohio, Biennial Census Shows

BY BASCOM N. TIMMONS

Washington, D. C.—Wisconsin was second only to Ohio in the number of aluminum manufacturing plants, the Department of Commerce has announced, giving out data collected at the biennial census in 1926.

Establishments engaged primarily in the manufacture of aluminum products reported, for 1925, aluminum ware, principally cooking utensils and other household articles, valued at $30,616,533; castings, including motor-vehicle accessories and parts, $25,362,548; all other aluminum products, including rolled forms, bars, plates and sheets, $61,324,629 and miscellaneous products $2,352,737, making a total of $119,659,647, an increase of 17.5 per cent as compared with $106,930,367 for 1925, the last preceding census year. The aluminum-manufactures industry, as classified for census purposes, does not include the production of pig aluminum from the ore.

In addition, aluminum products are manufactured to some extent as secondary products by establishments engaged primarily in other industries. The value of such commodities thus produced outside the industry proper in 1925 was $1,965,503, an amount equal to 1.8 per cent of the total value of products reported for the industry as classified. The corresponding value for 1925 has not been calculated but will be shown in the final reports of the present census.

Of the 125 establishments reporting for 1925, 22 were located in Ohio, 14 in Wisconsin, 11 in New York, 10 in Michigan, 10 in New Jersey, 9 in Illinois, 8 in Pennsylvania, 7 in California, 7 in Indiana, 7 in Massachusetts, 6 in Missouri, and the remaining 15 in 8 other states.

NOT SO MANY FROZEN METERS THESE DAYS

Folks More Careful Since Water Department Began Charging for Service

In spite of the cold weather of the past two weeks the number of water meters that have been frozen and required the attention of a "trouble shooter" from the water department is comparatively small when contrasted with the number of freezeups five years ago, according to Fred Morris, waterworks secretary.

One of the greatest troubles five years ago was that the department made no charge for repairing damaged meters and as a result many people were careless about leaving windows open during cold weather. It was necessary for the department to hire a crew of five trouble shooters to repair the meters because the office would be flooded with calls for every cold wave.

With the institution of a charge for repairs the number of reported frozen meters immediately dropped. The average charge is about $1.25 according to Mr. Morris. During the past two weeks only about 25 frozen meters were reported.

WOODS' REJECTION

The senate by a vote of 49 to 28 has rejected the appointment of Cyrus E. Woods of Pennsylvania to succeed Frederick I. Cox of New Jersey on the Interstate Commerce commission. The vote against Mr. Woods was larger than had been expected. For several days the appointment had been considered behind closed doors, and it is well known that strong administrative pressure was brought to bear on the senate to secure confirmation. Mr. Woods has already enjoyed high political honors, having been ambassador to Spain and Japan, and he had the active support of Secretary Mellon and Senators Reed and Pepper of Pennsylvania.

The rejection of Mr. Woods is directly due to the assumption by senators that back of the appointment was a sinister effort of coal operators in Pennsylvania to secure local and prejudiced representation on the Interstate Commerce commission. They have been openly trying to secure a Pennsylvania member for years, and the last appointment to the commission was held up by Senator Reed until, so it was stated at the time, he had obtained a pledge from the president that the next appointee would be from his state.

Mr. Coolidge's apparent effort to make good a promise was unfortunate. Mr. Woods is said to be a large holder of railroad and other securities, and was former counsel for Pittsburgh coal operators and the Pennsylvania Railroad company. The Pittsburgh operators are deeply interested in the lake cargo coal rate case, a long standing effort to secure a differential against Virginia, West Virginia, Tennessee and Kentucky operators that would give Pennsylvania an undue advantage over these competitors in the extensive Northwest coal market. The lake states and the Northwest have opposed a widening of the differential, for it is to their interest to preserve the competition which now exists and to keep accessible sources of fuel supply in states other than Pennsylvania. Under the circumstances there was nothing for the senate to do but reject Mr. Woods' appointment. notwithstanding he stated he would take no part in the disposition of the lake cargo coal rate case.

Mr. Coolidge has made a number of distressing appointments, in fact the greatest weakness of his administration has been the selection of administrative officials. Some of them have at least had the appearance of being dictated by so-called privileged interests, and the Woods selection was a flagrant example. In the whole history of the country we have had few secretaries of the treasury of greater ability than Andrew Mellon, but it is a question whether his political influence and strong voice with the president have been healthy or desirable. At any rate, any time an appointment like that of Woods is brought to an issue, the president's prestige is weakened.

Of course, the Woods' appointment should have been rejected on grounds other than the personal equation and corporation affiliations. It was an attempt, in so far as the appointment was sponsored by Pennsylvania, to inject the principle of local or state representation into the organization of the Interstate Commerce commission. Nothing could so quickly destroy the standing of the commission as a start in this direction. The complete disinterestedness and nationally representative character of the members must be preserved against any and all political assaults.

CONSIDER THE MUSTACHE!

Men and mustaches.
The theme may seem trivial, nay, even flippant, but few questions ever have confronted frail humanity that were brimming with more thought-provoking material.

So many questions. First of all, the history of mustaches.

Mustaches started having a history for the same reason that did side-burns and goatees and Van Dykes and all the other hirsute garnishings.

They just naturally started because there were no razors. Here's another question full of thought. What did men shave with before they had razors?

We know they did, for ancient pictures show us both clean-shaven and foliaged cave men.

Without historic research, one would guess that they used sharpened flints or perhaps pulled the hairs out one by one.

Anyway, men started shaving. Then they got lazy and only shaved the south, east and west, leaving the north to flourish with what was called the mustache.

In England, we learn, the mustache came about in 1798 when the British Tommies mocked their Australian soldier brothers, who had learned, too, that complete shaving is a trial and nuisance.

The Puritans never wore them, being Puritans, and the Cavaliers did, being Cavaliers.

As a natural evolution, men with mustaches are supposed to be bold and daring, and clean-shaven males painstaking, systematic, perhaps reactionary.

Mustaches have their uses. Thus, the gentleman with the mustache can finger it when he feels uneasy in a drawing room. He can calm himself just as the maiden jangles her beads or snaps her vanity case.

Then again, mustaches help differentiate the male from the female, and, for this alone, are rather necessary in this day.

Mustaches, whether from tradition or intrinsic value, make a man look distinguished, they hide scars, they make them look older, and make most of us prefer clean-shaves.

Just by way of proving that even seemingly flippant subjects hold food for thought.

AN AERIAL KINGDOM

The recent British Imperial conference, at which the great step of autonomizing the British empire on a parity with the states in the United States of America was taken, made a second recommendation, which, however, has had the attention it deserves, due to the over-shadowing influence of the main result of the conference. The second recommendation, signed by Sir Samuel Hoare, secretary for air, asks for an early extension of the air services and provision for new airdromes and mooring masts to be available for projected demonstration flights of airships in 1928 and 1929 and suggests the holding of an imperial air conference at that time.

The indication is clear. The premiers who attended the conference, while modifying the empire, yet feel it can be more thoroughly knitted together with rapid air transportation than was possible under the present conditions.

Their vision of the future cannot but be sound and founded on our experience to date. Peoples are usually as understanding of each other as their communication permits. If there is a common intercourse, not only of thought and purpose, but of individuals, there is warming of attitude and a development of friendship. This it will be with the British empire. Nominally it may be said that the empire is weaker, because of the change in the governmental relations between London and the colonies, but that depends principally upon future policies, and development of air communication is one step toward insuring community of interest and understanding.

DREAMS

One broken dream is not the end of dreaming. One shattered hope is not the end of all. Beyond the storm and tempest stars are gleaming. Build your castles, though your castles fall.
Though many dreams come tumbling in disaster And pain and heartache meet us down the years, Still keep your faith, your dreams and hopes to master. And seek to find the lesson of your tears.
Not all is as it should be! See how littered With sorry wreckage is life's restless stream. Some dreams are vain, but be you not embittered And never cry that you have ceased to dream!

THE YOUNG 'UNS ARE NOT SO BAD

One mother of two girls, but no boys (hard luck), puts this question when filing her reply in the question box on the subject of sex instruction: "Why is it that in spite of our having an abundance of sex knowledge certain individuals get wrong? Why are the young people today, with their greater knowledge, apparently more difficult to handle?"
The first part of the question is not fair. Why is it that in spite of careful training and moral knowledge certain individuals steal, lie, kill, or swindle those who trust them? Would thieves be less likely to steal if their parents, teachers and religious advisers carefully shielded them throughout childhood from knowledge of stealing? Would it be fair or kind to a child to protect him throughout childhood from knowledge that such a thing as stealing or swindling is practiced by many persons under the name of business?

Young people today get a great deal more advertising than young people had in times ago. If a young woman back in the eighties sort of eloped at the age of 17 or 18 years, with a few intimate friends of the family, and about it and they considered the happy couple on their return to the parental domain. Nowadays if a woman takes it into her head to indulge in such an escapade at such an early age the news is blazoned to the whole nation, more or less, and police organizations and private detective concerns vie with each other for a mention in the stories the newspaper people write about the affair. All this, of course, makes the young people seem dreadful. We old folk read the lurid headlines and gasp and tell each other what a day-know about that eh it certainly beats all the way they carry on nowadays.

A few years ago I myself was taken in by the force of advertising. I feared the young people were going to perdition or somewhere, and going fast. But on careful study of the best evidence I could find, bearing on conduct of life in the eighties and earlier, and a due recognition of the shameless amount of exaggeration, not to say misrepresentation in this "sensational" news, I had to conclude that there probably was as much downright wickedness in the quiet eighties as there is in this noisy jazz age.

Let me see, didn't they have booze parlors pretty widely distributed over the territory in the eighties, with "ladies' entrance" plainly marked for the convenience of the bestial beasts? Were not even female members of the churches, unmarried and married, noted in their little neighborhoods for their cutting up on occasion? Ditto for the respectable gentlemen all the time? I think I can remember they were.

This question is only the old alibi of the parents and religious advisers revamped to fit the trend of the times. The alibi has always been a vague notion that by keeping the children "innocent" we save them the best chance. This alibi is a cheap one and it can no longer suffice. In these days of "sensational" newspaper stuff, "dramas" novels, sexual movies and commercial pandering in general, the "innocent" child is a dull one indeed. With the unbridled license which all these agencies of instruction have, how can a child be kept "innocent" in modern life?

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Please let me know what food and medical value there is in pure olive oil. (J. L. L.)
Answer—Olive oil yields 27 calories (heat or energy units, fuel value) and butter 23 calories to the ounce. But olive oil contains practically no vitamins, and butter is one of the richest known food substances, egg yolk being the other, in vitamins. So one could subsist longer on butter than on olive oil. But olive oil is a thoroughly good food item and should be more freely used in the dietary, for it is economical.

Function of Nerves
I was greatly interested in an article you printed entitled "Nervous Breakdown," but you put too soon. What is the function of the nerves? How regain normal strength and vigor after a nervous breakdown? (C. A. S.)

Answer—The sole function of the nerves is to convey messages, sensory or motor impulses, signals, or special sense impressions. The nerves have nothing to do with strength and vigor and therefore I say there is no such thing as "nervous breakdown," a "nervous tonic" or "nervous vitality." These are pleasant labels applied to bemuse.

THIS IS GETTING SERIOUS

LIBRARY ADVENTURES
By Arnold Mulder

A NOVELIST'S PROBLEM
Two novels were published at about the same time recently, one in England and one in America, that called for the solution of the same fundamental technical difficulty, and neither of them solved the problem but in each the author sidestepped it.

The English novel is "Lord Rainsford" by Arnold Bennett, and the American book is "Revelry" by Samuel Hopkins Adams. "Lord Rainsford" is a story of the days of the World war and the English war cabinet figures very prominently in it. "Revelry" is a story of the Harding administration and the Harding cabinet is a prominent feature of the story. But in the English book the persons in the actual war ministry are not described; Arnold Bennett pretends that the prime minister is not Lloyd George, that the secretary of foreign affairs is not Viscount Grey, and so on. All the men introduced have other names, although the reader knows well enough what the real names of the various actual historical personages were.

In the American book President Harding is not introduced, but a president whose name is Markham. Secretary Fall has another name and so had Secretary Daugherty and Jesse Smith and a dozen other persons who were prominent in the Harding administration. They all have different names and it is pretended that the administration that is described still lies in the future. But every reader who is informed about continually reading the name "Harding" for "Markham" and so with all the others: it is impossible not to do this. In each case the novel as a work of art suffers because of this fact. It could not very well be otherwise. The device adopted by the novelist in each case tends to destroy the illusion. In the case of the English novel the reader always unconsciously has the feeling that his intelligence is being insulted. The facts of the war days are so fresh in his mind that he knows all about the personages in the English ministry. And when Lloyd George and Viscount Grey and Winston Churchill are gravely given different names, he gets the feeling that the novelist regards him as a person who must be told fair stories. In other words, the trick of changing the names is so much present in the reader's mind that he finds it impossible to yield himself up to the illusion the novelist is trying to create and the novel fails to have the effect, the sense of reality, that it might otherwise have and that it ought to have.

So also with "Revelry." It fails to have the effect that an actual account of the period would have. It does not give the same picture of the Harding administration. For instance, that "The Institute Papers of Colonel House" gives of the Wilson administration. On the other hand, it does not create the illusion of genuine fiction; the reader cannot get rid of the bothersome knowledge that he has of the actual events of the administration that is described. It is neither one thing nor the other and it fails as both fiction and fact.
But what is a novelist to do? Assume that he wishes to treat a historical period that is recent and fresh in the minds of all. He is debarred from using the actual names by the very laws of his art — real names would cramp the imagination and would make the story pattern impossible. Also, the libel law restrains him, unless he follows literal and actual history, and then he would not have a novel. But he wants to write a novel. It is a real dilemma and no novelist has as yet satisfactorily solved it.
It is no answer to say, as some have done, that the novelist has no right to choose such themes as those of "Lord Rainsford" or "Revelry." That is nonsense. A novelist has a right to choose any theme in heaven or on the earth or in the waters under the earth. If Dante and Milton had not believed that we would never have had "The Divine Comedy" or "Paradise Lost." The novelist may choose any theme but when he chooses it he is under obligation to make it plausible, to create the illusion of reality. If he cannot do that he fails as an artist. Unless he is big enough to do that while using fictitious names for recent historical persons, it is the part of wisdom to leave it alone.

President, American Nature Ass'n.

Several hundred years ago in Scotland a new type of dog began to attract attention. He was small with a black head and because he was jet black they called him "collie" — as many of the old Scots still do.

Various theories are held concerning his evolution, but nothing seems definite. For years he remained a clever outdoor dog with unusual intelligence, then an event occurred which nearly ruined him.

Queen Victoria, when a child, proclaimed him her favorite canine and the fashionable world took up the fad. They bred him in other colors, mainly sable; they lengthened his thick head, darkened and stunted his legs, but his mind remained untouched and bright.

As years went on the tide of judgment swung from beauty to brains and the collie was saved, recultivating his former qualities of stamina and sense, and living up to the old Gaelic saying, "A collie has the brains of a man and the ways of a woman." Yet what he is a very delicate sensitive instrument, and the treatment he receives in puppyhood determines the remainder of his life: "as the twig is bent . . ." This will also explain the idea prevalent that col-

New York—In a large room on the upper floor of the Actors' Equity Building in West 47th street, is the tribunal of a thousand temperaments.

Before it comes the manager of a theater, asking thousands in damages, because a play failed and because the alterations in the text and poor work of an actress made it fail.

The heavy villain of the piece, demanding $39.50 because a pistol was discharged too close to him on a dim-lit stage and burned a hole in his trousers.

A comedy dancing girl. It seems that $32.50 was held out of her salary when she quit a show in Kansas City, the price of a ticket for a substitute. Before it come all manner of complaints by all manner of actors, "hams" and stars, ladies of the burlesque and saps of the slapstick—each with a wound to heal.

The tribunal is the American Arbitration Association, guarding the uncertain peace of the Actors' Equity Association, with its 10,000 members; the Chorus Equity, with 4000 members, and the Producing Managers' Association, representing most of the theatrical producers of the east.

The procedure is simple. On the bench sits an arbitrator and a clerk. Before the bench come the two disputants, with perhaps witnesses.

When an actor and manager sign a contract, there is nearly always a clause providing arbitration before this court.

Brokers, editors, publishers, professors, presidents of manufacturing companies and others sit as arbitrators. The association has a panel list of 100 more or less prominent men who are willing to sit as judges. The costs are $10 for each side.

The court is prompt. During a recent day the dispute of eight persons were settled in half a day. In a court of New York City, such cases would not be handled for two or three years.

by the "snap" method may be much more than offset by the expense of passing it through both extractors and by the loss of value resulting from the lower grades. According to tests made by the department, snapping cotton in 1925 resulted in a loss to the grower of $7.29 a bale as compared with picking. When greater discounts were assessed against the cotton because it was snapped, and when it was sold in the seed, the loss was from approximately $14 to $27 a bale.

Q. What has become of the star that marked the place in the railway station where President Carfield was shot? R.

A. The tile is now in the National Museum.

Q. Where is the office building owned by Fred Stone? A. R.

A. It is located on 42nd St., New York City.

Q. How many athletes could a country start in each event in the Olympic Games in 1924? A. J.

A. The American Olympic Association says each nation was permitted to start four athletes in each event in the 1924 Olympic Track and Field events. The United States won the largest number of first places and scored 253 points against 166 for Finland who was our nearest competitor.

Q. Is it a fact that negro blood can never be bred out? O. L. W.

A. The Public Health Service says that according to the Mendelian law of inheritance negro blood or any other specific trait of inheritance is supposed to show up in the offspring according to a definite and rather complex plan. It occasionally happens that an offspring has a flareback to previous generations. This is called atavism, a recurrence or a tendency to recur to an ancestral type or to any ancestral trait, deformity, or disease after its disappearance for two or more generations. The cause of this reversion is not known. Negro blood can never be completely bred out, but it can become so attenuated as to be impossible to detect.

Q. What material is used to make cane seats? R. J. B.

A. The outer hard part of rattan is used.

Q. Which kind of milk contains the most fuel value per ounce? B. T.

A. Reindeer milk has the highest fuel value, containing 53 calories per ounce. Buffalo milk ranks second with 30, while goat's milk contains but 22 calories, and cow's milk 20. Woman's milk contains but 13 calories per ounce.

Two Floors of Good Things to Wear

Broken Threads

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE
To the home of PROF. and MOLLIE ELWELL in Campville, Ind., one night in October, 1918, is brought a woman who had fainted on a train. Late that night the woman bears twin girls and then dies without revealing her name.

The story then moves forward 18 years. The twins, now growing to beautiful womanhood, MARGARET and ELIZABETH, they are called RUSTY and BETTY.

JIM ELWELL, the son, enlists in the World War. He then discovers that one of the twins loves him.

It is shell-shocked at the Battle of Sedan and through a mix-up, is registered as JOHN POWELL. He is removed to an American hospital and reported dead.

It is discovered that the father of the twins is dead and that they are orphans. Their mother, CLAYTON, wealthy resident of Indianapolis. Shortly after this the Elwell get word that Jim is alive. They start for New York.

Meanwhile the steps leading to Jim Elwell's identification are accounted for. He is like a living dead man, but he is recognized by one MIKE HENNEGAN, ex-soldier, and NURSE DOWNING declares she will go to Washington to learn more about him.

NOW BEGIN THE STORY
CHAPTER XXVI
"Now listen, Mike," said Nellie Downing before she left to prepare for her journey to Washington, "you didn't earn any medals in France, at least, you didn't get any. But be have yourself and keep out of crap games and perhaps you'll get a medal yet; you can't tell. Take good care of your friend, Jim, and I'll decorate you myself when I get back."

"And I'll be right here to get it, Captain!" retorted Mike, swelling his chest. This new responsibility imposed on him seemed to have made him proud of himself. "You can pin a rose on Jim, too, for me, and I'll hold up a hand to show his crossed fingers."

"So hurry back and bring Jim's family with you, kid pals and all."

With which words Mike Hennegan, laying tender, guiding hands on his charge, took Jim Elwell out for a walk.

Arrived with the patient's name and the names of his father and mother and with the information that he had come from Indiana, Nellie Downing landed in Washington and proceeded to the war department, housed in the old State, War and Navy building in Pennsylvania avenue close to the White House.

She did not see the president. For some times red tape can be cut and action can be had—last action.

At first the search took them off on a false track. There were several James Elwell from Indiana, but the records of these men all were clear.

There was another Elwell—a James T. Elwell of Campville, Ind., who had been reported dead at the Battle of Sedan. Killed in a shell explosion together with four others of a machine gun unit of six.

His father's name was listed as Edwin, his mother's Mollie.

"We've found him," exclaimed Nellie Downing.

"But," the courteous officer, who was assisting reminded her, "this man is dead. There's no doubt about that, is there?"

"Very much of a doubt. I remember now that James Elwell, who then was listed as John Powell of Newark, New Jersey, was brought into the hospital at Metz where I worked with the report that he was the sole survivor of a machine gun unit of six that had been blown to pieces at the Battle of Sedan."

"What seems to have happened is a mixup in the identification of John Powell and James Elwell. John Powell is the one who was killed at Sedan. John Powell's mother and sweetheart visited the patient at the hospital in Long Island and failed to recognize him as their son. That proved he wasn't John Powell. It also left John Powell unaccounted for. Now that the man up in Long Island is identified as James Elwell, you are safe in guessing what became of the other man."

The officer nodded slowly. "Such mistakes can be made, of course, although they don't happen often. It seems strange, too, that the identification tags were missing from the two men. Otherwise there wouldn't have been such a mixup."

She was satisfied, Nellie Downing told him that the puzzle had been solved. "Would the war department notify James Elwell's parents of the mistake?"

The department would, the officer assured him. "And if there's still a mistake the parents would see it, of course."

But it would have to go through the orthodox channels, he told her, whereupon Nellie Downing frowned and pleaded insistently that he take it upon himself to see the thing through.

"Every minute you wait is torture to his people out in Indiana."

Never well. Always tired and fagged out. Beauty tossed away by neglect. To be beautiful and to keep youth the system must be free from poisonous backwash of constipation which often causes dizzy spells. For 20 years, Dr. P. M. Edwards gave his patients, in place of calomel, a complete vegetable ingredients mixed with olive oil, naming them Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. Known by their olive color. They free the system of poisons that ravage health, energy, beauty.

You need never have hollow complexion, dull eyes, coated tongue, throbbing headaches—all signs that your bowels are clogged, liver is torpid. Take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets nightly. They act smoothly and without gripping. How much better you feel and look! Everywhere wise men and women who know the value of good health take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. All druggists, 15c, 30c and 60c.

FREAR ADVOCATES THOROUGH PROBE OF INDIAN BUREAU

Wisconsin Congressman Favors Constructive Program to Help Indians

A thorough congressional investigation of the activities of the federal Indian bureau and a constructive legislative program "to bring about real improvement and real hope to 225,000 of our so-called incompetent and generally neglected American citizens"—the Indians—were advocated by Congressman James A. Frear, Wisconsin, in a speech before the house.

In his address, Congressman Frear pointed out what he termed "specific" charges of mismanagement of the Indians through "bureaucratic despotism" and read from affidavits and other evidence charging illegal practices involving Indian judges in Wisconsin. He read a telegram from former Gov. John J. Blaine sent to President Coolidge, Feb. 15, 1926, protesting the jailing Jan. 26, 1926, of Paul Moore at the Lac du Flambeau agency jail, in a cell filled with stench, and with

Nellie Downing's eyes flinched, but she plunged ahead. "James Elwell," she said, "has been shellshocked. He has no memory."

A sharp intake of breath from Mollie. "He has no mind," went on Nellie Downing. "He can walk, but he does not think. He has learned to feed himself and a few simple tasks like putting on part of his clothing. He does not talk. He does not remember anything or anyone."

She stopped and looked expectantly at Jim's mother. Prof. stood ready. But if they had expected her to faint or cry out at the blow, they were wrong.

Mollie Elwell said, simply, "Take me to my boy."

In the next chapter Mollie Elwell tries to see if a mother's kiss can stir her boy's memory.

Science the Source of Progress

"Science is the soul and the prosperity of nations and the living source of all progress," said Pasteur.

Science has been the living source of the progress of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana). This company has always represented a partnership of practical industry and research.

Research laboratories where scientific investigations may be carried on with the greatest facility are an important part of the equipment of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

Of all the tremendous labor undertaken by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), the most important to the motorist, but perhaps the least known to him, is the research work of the company.

The labor of drilling a well or building a service station is apparent to the most casual observer, whereas the labor of developing processes for producing gasoline by cracking, for example, is inconceivable to the average man.

The development of commercially successful processes for producing gasoline by cracking is one of the achievements of the research laboratories of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana), the results of which are appreciated easily.

Over three billion additional gallons of gasoline are produced annually by this method. Without it, there would not be enough gasoline today—and prices would be prohibitive.

Every man, woman and child in the entire country has been benefited by this research work of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana).

Although the benefits of producing gasoline by cracking processes are far-reaching and widespread, the average motorist is ignorant of the work behind it. He knows nothing of the days and nights of patient study, the disheartening difficulties to be faced, the immense amount of effort, that are part of the history of this as of every other scientific discovery.

Like most precious things, information is found in small quantities and the finding involves a maximum amount of slow, painstaking work. Each product of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) has a long history of such work behind it.

Scientific work goes on every day in the laboratories of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) where men are correlating theory and practice, and out of actual experience developing new knowledge, founded on facts already known.

The work of these scientists is a small but most important part of a great whole. It is the "living source" of the progress of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana)—progress in applying all the knowledge of the hour to supplying the petroleum needs of the people of the Middle West—progress in serving them faithfully and well.

a ball and chain fastened to his ankle. In the same cell were incarcerated Indian women.

WOULD PRESENT FACTS
Said Congressman Frear: "This is not to excuse in any degree any offense, if an offense was committed, but to get some facts in a case where letters to Senator La Follette heretofore inserted in the Record state that Moore was brought before Supt. Hammit of the agency; that an Indian named Sawgetchwayghez, posing as a judge, was present, who could neither read nor write English. That Hammit prepared and read Moore's sentence to six months' imprisonment in the agency jail. All this appears in the letter found in the Record on Mar. 4.

Assuming that all the facts were as claimed by Commissioner Duke (of the federal Indian bureau), I submit his own statement—Page 27 of the hearings.

"I say I have no sympathy for Paul Moore and I think he ought to be in chains, not for the time of the sentence of the Indian court, but for a much longer period."

RAPS JUDICIAL SYSTEM
Congressman Frear brands as "un-constitutional" and "autocratic" the Indian judicial system, whereby Indian agents by authority of law appoint some Indian to act in their stead to enforce the agent's will in Indian government.

"The illegal system ought to be shelved with other public myths affecting the supposed conservative and elevating treatment given by the Indian bureau to its wards of today," headed.

"Bills authorizing a practical and just court procedure in all such cases were opposed by the bureau last session. Unless contaminated by evil white influences the Indian is honest, well-behaved and a good citizen."

"The Indian should be held amen-

able to law the same as every other citizen. He should also have the same rights in either state or federal courts that his white brother has and be subject to the same laws. I introduced several bills on the subject giving the courts jurisdiction of the property and person of the Indian, but every bill so introduced that attempted to take from the Indian bureau its executive right of absolute control of the property and person of the Indian was opposed by the bureau.

BUREAU OPPOSES LAW
"The fault that no law exists for the control of the Indians by ordinary lawful methods is alone chargeable to the Indian bureau's opposition. An investigation would speedily determine the reason for that opposition and which system is the better—legal court procedure or bureaucratic rule. "Suggestions have been offered by various agencies that have studied the Indian problem and that recognize bureaucratic straitjackets worn by the Indians for nearly three-quarters of a century are to the everlasting discredit of a country that has opened its doors and welcomed the oppressed of every land to enjoy American citizenship on an equality with the native born.

"It remains for congress, and congress alone, to meet the Indian problem squarely and wipe from the slate over a century's record of injustice, neglect and ill treatment of these helpless wards of the government. Only a congressional investigating committee can adequately diagnose the existing disease and prescribe a constructive remedy that will be adopted by congress."

Here's Speedy Relief From Bunions and Soft Corns

Voigt's Drug Store and Schlitz Bros. Co. Says Emerald Oil Must Give Complete Satisfaction or Money Cheerfully Refunded.

Get a two-ounce bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil (full strength) today. Every well stocked drug store has this, with distinct understanding that your money will be cheerfully returned if it does not reduce the inflammation, soreness, and pain much quicker than any remedy you ever used.

Your bunions may be so swollen and inflamed that you think you can't go another step. Your shoes may feel as if they are cutting right into the flesh. You feel sick all over with pain and torture and pray for quick relief. What's to be done?

Two or three applications of Moore's Emerald Oil and in fifteen minutes the pain and soreness disappears. A few more applications at regular intervals and the swelling reduces.

And as for Soft Corns a few applications each night at bed time and they just seem to shrivel up and scale off.

No matter how discouraged you have been with pads, shields, or other applications, if you have not tried Emerald Oil then you have something to learn.

It's a wonderful formula—this combination of essential oils with camphor and other antiseptics so marvelous that thousands of bottles are sold annually for reducing varicose or swollen veins.

Voigt's Drug Store, Schlitz Bros. Co. and every good druggist guarantees Moore's Emerald Oil to end your foot troubles or money back.

NEW FASHIONS A PAGE OF INTEREST TO WOMEN BEAUTY HINTS

Famous Actress Keeps One Step Ahead Of Modern Styles; Gertrude, Who Started Necklace Fad, Now Exploits Coatee

BY BETSY SCHWABER
NEW YORK—With all the New Yorkers going southward I turn this week to the state for a little excitement in the matter of clothes.
You can always depend upon certain of our actresses to keep ahead of the mode, and in this class I know of no one who stands above Gertrude Lawrence, the English actress, formerly of "Charlotte's Revue" and now in "Oh, Kay."
It was she who introduced the little gold necklaces that everyone wore last year, and this year she is exploiting the short little coatee. If there is any woman living who can look more bewitching than she in a perfectly simple chiffon frock, that woman has escaped me, but I'd like to meet her.
MOST CHIC IN NEW YORK
I am perfectly willing to go as far as to say I think she is the most chic woman in New York today. Let us say she is absolutely the type for whom modern clothes are made—little, beautifully slender, and feminine in the nth degree though she loves to offset an almost boyish simplicity.
"I love little waist coats and knitted dresses, and independent hats," she told me. "I like warm colored frocks under dark fur coats for day, I like black and white for dinner or formal afternoon wear, and I love simple petal-like evening frocks with very gorgeous wraps."
LIKES COUNTRY JEWELS
"In jewels, I like what I call 'country jewelry' that is, slave bracelets, heavy gold chains and colorful modern effects. For evening I like pearls—and bracelets to my elbows. Oh, yes, I love flowers, they accent a frock."
One of the most interesting gowns she showed me was one she designed herself of mauve chiffon and lace, a queer combination of sport frock of today and the fragile lace gown of yesterday. The skirt was of finely pleated chiffon on a plain slip top, over which she wore a closely fitting tight sleeved coatee of mauve lace. The coat was a caustic style held together at the waistline with a diamond ornament, and the edge of the neckline was bound in satin. Sable also edged the cuffs. On the shoulder was a flower of a very hard bright red and she wore red pumps and stockings that were the identical shade of the dress.

LONG COAT AND TIGHT SLEEVES
An afternoon frock that was possibly French was a three-piece affair consisting of a cutaway coat, skirt and a white velvet blouse. The material on the shoulder was a flower of a very same shade of the frock and luxuriously collared and cuffed in fox.

LEARN SIMPLICITY'S VALUE
We can't all be Gertrude Lawrences, but we all could learn something about the value of simplicity and the importance of grace and motion and what they contribute to present day styles.
Another woman who just landed in our country who knows how to make herself stand out in a crowd of well groomed women is Lady Mendl, professionally known as Elsie Do Wolfe. I saw her in a pink coat, one of the new helmet hat of gray felt and a small grey veil that stopped after it had interestingly veiled her eyes.
Always I shall remember her at the opera in white satin and emeralds several years ago, before white evening dresses were so generally worn. She stood out with cameo clearness and remains so in my memory though I haven't the remotest remembrance of what anyone else wore that particular night.
GREEN FAVORED AT NIGHT
For evening wear, green seems to be coming up in the color list, and for day and sport, particularly among the spring showings, there is much of this new blue that has lots of gray in it. The harder blue seems to be receding. After all, unless you have a complexion that fears no revelation, there is no use framing your face in sapphire.

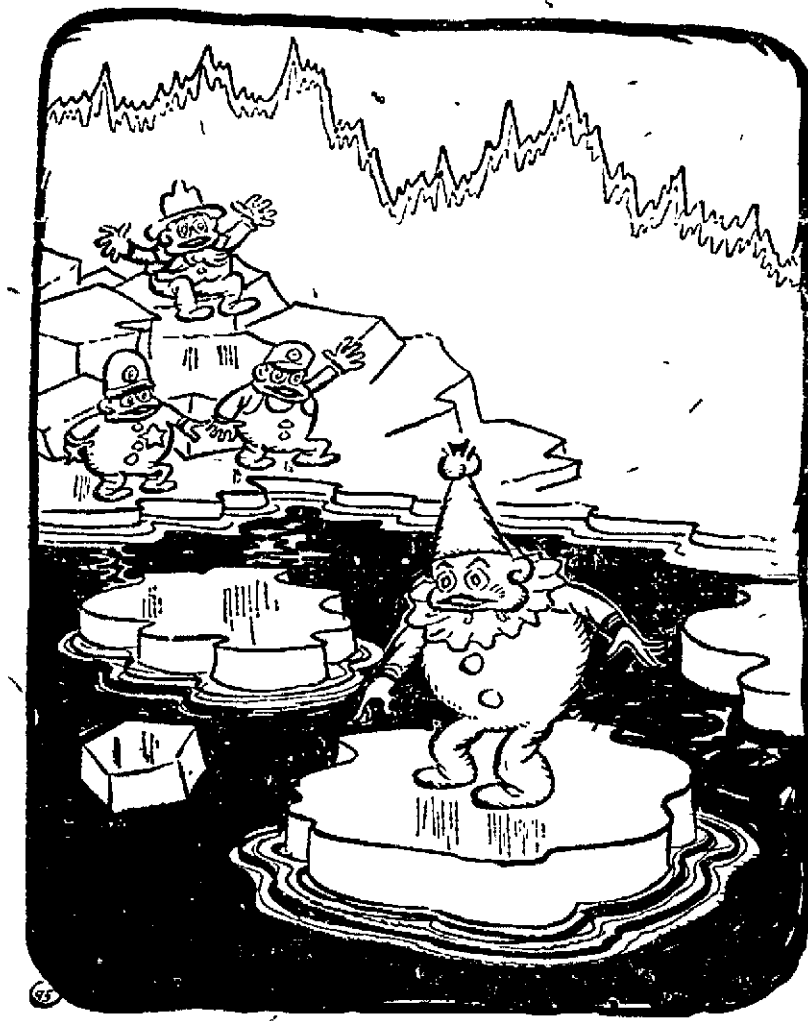

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY
Breakfast—Grapefruit, cereal, thin cream, creamed dried beef on graham toast, cinnamon toast, milk, coffee.
Luncheon—Minced lamb in rice border, stewed tomatoes, raisin bread, steamed cherry puffs, milk tea.
Dinner—Boiled corned beef, mashed potatoes, browned cabbage, winter vegetable salad, spiced corn bread, prune whip with custard sauce, milk, coffee.
Three tablespoons of butter are creamed with 1 teaspoon of cinnamon and 2 tablespoons brown sugar for the cinnamon toast. After spreading hot toast with the mixture put pieces back in a very hot oven or under the flame until the butter bubbles up slightly. Serve at once.
BROWNED CABBAGE
One 4-pound head cabbage, 4 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon sugar, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 teaspoon pepper, 1/2 cup cream, 1 tablespoon tomato catsup, 2 eggs.
Trim cabbage and cut in quarters. Drop into a large kettle of boiling salted water and cook, uncovered, for 20 minutes. Drain, chop in the kettle and drain again. Add butter and mix thoroughly. Mix flour, sugar, salt and pepper and add cream, stirring hard to make perfectly smooth. Add to cabbage and mix well. Stir in catsup and add eggs well beaten. Turn into a hot well-buttered shallow pan, cover closely and cook over a low fire on top of the stove until the bottom is brown. Turn out on a hot cloth plate, under side up to serve. The dish can be served on the lower grate of a very hot oven with less danger of burning.

THE TINYMITES

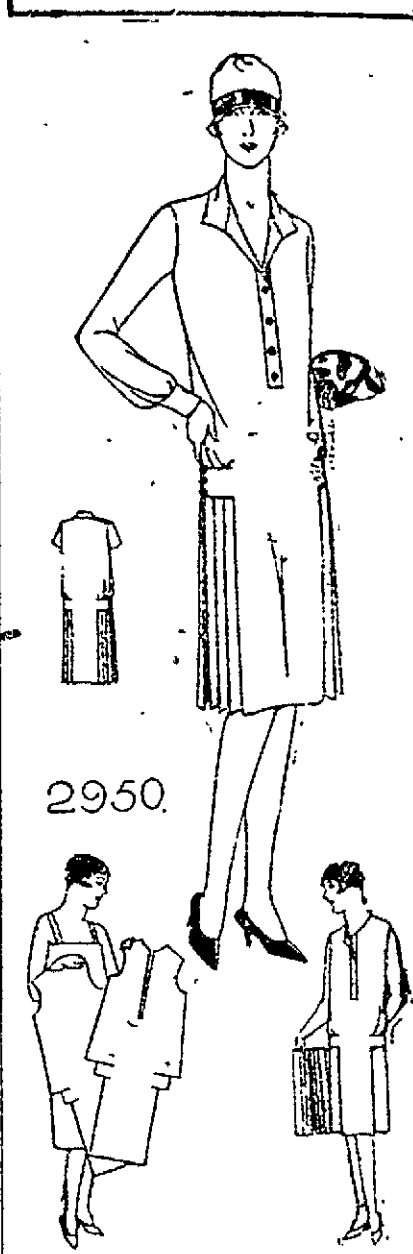

By Hal Cochran

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

AS Clowdy floundered round about the cold, cold stream, they heard him shout. "Hey, someone throw a rope to me and help me, if you please. It's true that I know how to swim, but, say, just now I'm not in trim. The water's much too chilly and I fear that I will freeze."
The other 'mites, filled with fear, went running 'round, both there and here 'cause they were panic-stricken and they knew not what to do. "Oh, goodness me," wee Coppy said, "I fear it's deep and o'er my head, or I would jump right in the stream and try to rescue you."
Then Scouty shouted, "Have no fear. The Eskimo will soon be here, and I am sure that he will tell us how to get you out." The Eskimo heard Clowdy scream when he was pitched out in the stream, and promptly he had run for rope, or something else, no doubt.
So, in the meantime, Clowdy tried to pull some ice up by his side, so he

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

"Makes me so mad," Mrs. Lane sat up in her hospital bed and glared at the nurse who was arranging the flowers Faith had brought. "won't let me see a newspaper, Faith treating me like a baby. Rock on I ain't as sick as all that, and if I don't let me see what the papers said about Cherry's wedding, I'm going to walk right out of this jail they call a hospital and buy a paper for myself."
"Dr. Atkins has forbidden us to show you the papers, Mother," Faith explained patiently for the third or fourth time. "The papers are full of—of the injustice to Mr. Cluny and—and all like that. Dr. Atkins has positively forbidden you to read what they say, because it will make you angry, and cause your heart to misbehave. Look, Mother, aren't the flowers lovely? Bob brought them for you."
Mrs. Lane lay back on her pillows, closing her eyes upon the vase of roses which Faith was offering with trembling hands. "I want to see Cherry," she moaned. "You tell her that Mrs. Muggsy ain't mad at her — you tell her when you write, you hear me, Faith? Tell her to come home."
"I'll tell her, Muggsy — when I write," Faith promised, her voice husky with tears she did not dare shed.
"What you and Bob looking so solum about?" Mrs. Lane demanded, suddenly opening her eyes wide at them. "You'd think to look at you two something, Cherry's in jail. In jail? Don't you know it will kill her?" "Rocken there ain't nothing we can do," Jim Lane said heavily, but he put his arm with awkward tenderness about his daughter's shoulders. "Bob's hired that Stephen Churchill, said to be one of the smartest lawyers in the state—"

"Can't he get her out, Bob?" "I'm afraid not, darling," Bob confessed. "Not when it's a charge of murder. They'll hold her for the jury. The state doesn't permit bail in murder cases, honey. All we can hope for now is that the grand jury will refuse to indict on the grounds of insufficient evidence."

Modern Women's Hygiene

Ends worries of old ways Discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND Registered Nurse

SHEER gowns and gay frocks, business and social, exactness under the most trying of hygienic handicaps are a comfort women of today enjoy.

This because old hygienic ways are being widely supplanted by a new way called Kotex.

Kotex discards as easily as tissue. Thus no laundry, no embarrassment of disposal.

It's 5 times as absorbent as ordinary cotton "pads." Thus you wear lightest frocks; dance, motor, go for hours without a moment's doubt.

Deodorizes, too, thus ending all fear of offense. It's in better class women now employ this way. Doctors advise it. Nurses widely urge it. Obtain at any store without embarrassment simply by saying "KOTEX."

Try today and you'll never again risk the uncertainty of old ways. Box of 12 costs only a few cents. Be sure you get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

NEW LONDON TEAM
NEXT SATURDAY

High Squad Has Three Heavy Games Scheduled for Next Few Days

Kaukauna—Saturday, Feb. 5, has been set as the date for the New London high school basketball game. The game was arranged for early this week. New London has a good team this season and although the Smithmen have generally won easily from the Red and White squad in the past a hard game is looked forward to.

Next Tuesday the Orange and Black men of the strong Appleton high school team at the Armory floor at Appleton. Appleton has dropped only two games this season and has a good record in the Fox River valley conference. Appleton has practically its old team of last year and should play bang-up ball. The College City squad was defeated by Neenah and Manitowish. The winners have two of the strongest players in the state. A large delegation of Kaukauna fans will journey to Appleton for the game with Kaukauna's ancient rival. Coach William Smith has hit upon a combination which he believes will cause the Orange and Blue squad plenty of trouble.

WARN BOYS TO QUIT
PUTTING SNOW ON ICE

Kaukauna—Police have been instructed to watch city skating rinks to prevent young men about the city from throwing snow on the ice. Saturday afternoon, it was said, several young fellows showed up and threw great quantities of snow on a newly scraped rink at Park school. The boys ran away when Alderman Cooper, who saw them at work, went to the rink to stop them.

LEAGUE LEADERS MEET
TAILEND BOWLING TEAM

Kaukauna—The league leading Maytag Washers meet the lowly Mulforders in a Kaukauna-Bussey Night Bowling League match Wednesday evening. The Bankers will battle the second place Kaukauna Lumber Co. team. These matches will be rolled at 7 o'clock. At 9 o'clock Runtz's Grocers will meet Andrews Oil and Pendergast Creams roll Barogeneous Butchers.

League standings:

W. L. Pot.	22	14	609
Maytag Washers	22	14	609
Kaukauna Lumber Co.	20	16	553
Runtz's Grocers	20	16	552
Andrews Oil	21	21	508

STATE ADVANCES TO NEW FRONT IN BATTLE ON T. B.

Outagamie Included in List of Counties Aiding in Long Task

Madison—(P)—Intensely pursuing its offensive drive, the state of Wisconsin advanced a new front in 1926 in its six year war on bovine tuberculosis.

A long list of counties has been added to the roll of the state department of agriculture showing that they are included among those enlisted in the fight to eliminate tuberculosis from the Badger state dairy industry.

Continuing towards its goal of completing the testing of Wisconsin's 3,000,000 cattle population by 1931, the department with the cooperation of the federal government concentrated on the Southern Wisconsin areas affected by the restrictions made by Chicago and Milwaukee.

It was in the southern area, according to Commissioner John D. Jones, Jr. that the percentage of infected cattle far exceeded expectations and caused depleted state funds. It necessitated approval of a special session of the legislature of $100,000 last spring, and now is making necessary a request for an additional $750,000 from the state legislature.

The close of 1926 found Wisconsin with 10 counties on the modified accredited list which means less than one-half of one per cent of the cattle are infected with tuberculosis. Twelve have undergone the second general test, and Barron county has been tested three times. Testing in 13 counties is incomplete.

Need of testing in Dane, Jefferson, Racine and Walworth counties is a valuable argument to comply with the health regulations in Chicago and other cities is contemplated in the senate bill asking an appropriation of $750,000 introduced yesterday, according to Senator George W. Hull, White-water, Wis. author.

"We could not change the health regulations in the larger cities if we would," the senator said. "The farmers in these counties are handicapped by not having a clean bill of health for their herds and dairy markets are being closed to them."

Commissioner Jones said that the city of Chicago will soon require that cream used in making ice cream be produced from tested herds.

"A number of large dairy plants, located in southern Wisconsin," he said, "make a specialty of this business, and unless the dairymen supplying these plants are able to comply with the market requirements, their business will be seriously interfered with if not discontinued."

Manitowish will enforce a tuberculosis test requirement beginning May 1, 1927, the commissioner said.

"Since July 1," he pointed out, "complete area tests, under the state-federal cooperative agreement, have been applied in Dunn, Marathon, Rock, Adams, Winnebago, Brown, Waushara, Ozaukee, Outagamie, and Kenosha-coes. Partial area tests have been applied in Fond du Lac, Washington, Milwaukee, Racine, Walworth, Jefferson, Dane, and Sauk-coes. A complete-area test has been applied in Barron-co, and partial tests have been applied in Clark, Trempealeau and Lincoln-coes.

"In addition to the work heretofore mentioned, a large volume of head testing has been carried on largely in the eight Wisconsin counties that do not have area test petitions on file, or in counties whose petitions have been filed, but in which the area test is not immediately contemplated. This very large volume of T. B. Eradication Work, during the last six months of 1926, was due in large part to health ordinance requirements of the cities of Milwaukee, Racine and Kenosha.

AWARDED $6,000 IN SUIT AGAINST DRIVER

A judgment of $6,000 was awarded Miss Bertha Greenspon, 526 W. Wisconsin-ave last week in Fond du Lac court, in a suit growing out of an automobile accident at Eden last summer, according to C. E. Dehnke, plaintiff's attorney. Miss Greenspon was driving through Eden, on July 6, when she was struck by a car driven by Gustavo Scotty, Milwaukee. Mr. Scotty had cut a corner in the village and was on the wrong side of the street when he struck the local girl. Miss Greenspon suffered a bad cut on lower lip and chin, lost several teeth, was bruised in the accident. Her car was damaged badly.

DRAINAGE DITCHES WILL BE CLEANED

County Surveyor Preparing Plans for Work on Freedom District

New plans for cleaning the Freedom drainage district are being prepared by Lloyd M. Schindler, county surveyor, for presentation to the property holders in the district within a few weeks.

Residents in the east end of the town of Freedom whose property is drained by the system are anxious to clean the drainage ditches next summer. The system was completed about 11 years ago and has never been cleaned.

Plans for the work were prepared by Mr. Schindler some time ago but were rejected as involving too much expense. The plans he now is working on will provide for a shallower cleaning.

The main ditch, running in a generally north and south direction, is approximately 3.5 miles long. Two ditches lead into the main one from the east, one near the north end being about one-quarter mile long and the other about three-fourths of a mile. The ditch draining into the main one from the west is about a mile in length.

If the new plans are approved, bids probably will be advertised for shortly to permit start of the work next spring.

As a result of the large volume of work that has been done and the heavy demands that have been made on funds available for the payment of indemnities on reactor cattle, the Federal allotment available for such use was practically exhausted on December 31, 1926, and the net balance remaining in the State funds amounted to $152,943.72. This latter sum is sufficient only to carry on infected herd retests up to July 1, 1927.

"The department is informed, that the Congress of the United States, now in session, contemplates the appropriation of additional funds for Cooperative T. B. Eradication, such funds to be available during the present fiscal year. It is the belief of the department, therefore, that a State appropriation in the sum of $750,000, available for immediate use, will enable the extension of testing service."

APPROVE $93,715 IN BONUS CLAIMS TO WAR VETERANS

824 Claims Are Allowed by State in Last Biennium, Immell Reports

Madison—(P)—A total of 824 claims for cash bonuses to soldiers, sailors or marines of the World War have been approved by the adjutant general's department during the last biennium, amounting to $93,715.47, according to a report by Adjutant General Ralph Immell.

Since the cash bonus law came into operation in the state, 115,655 claims have been allowed, totalling $15,826,641.41 the report stated. An average of $136.82 was paid each veteran.

"The adjutant general's department," the report stated, "has been furnished with the statements of service of approximately 5,000 soldiers and sailors who claimed some city in Wisconsin as their place of residence at time of entry into service, but who have not applied for the bonus. Fifty per cent of those whose services have been credited to this state and who have not applied for the bonus have undoubtedly received the bonus offered by some other state or could not substantiate their residence while the other fifty per cent would likely be considered eligible.

"The cash bonus privilege expires July 1, 1927.

"The educational bonus law, provides for the payment of a bonus of $30.00 a month to any person eligible to the provisions of section 37.25 for regular attendance at an approved school in Wisconsin, but not to exceed a total of $1,080.00, and that any person heretofore denied the benefits on account of limitation shall be entitled to receive the benefits from July 1, 1924.

"Prior to July 1, 1924, the educational bonus was administered by the state board of education, and for the period from July 1, 1924 to June 30, 1925, by the soldiers' rehabilitation board and the state superintendent of public instruction. On June 30, 1926, 8,721 students availed themselves of the educational bonus privilege and $4,240,691.03 was paid out on their account of which amount $85,838.59 was expended on account of back bonus claims under the retroactive clause in the law. Of this number 706 students received the maximum amount of bonus available to any one person or $1,080.00.

"During the period from July 1, 1925 to June 30, 1926, or during the period of this report over which the adjutant general has been charged with the administration of the educational bonus, 231 applications have been approved."

COMMITTEES STUDY
POLICE WAGE SCALE

The fire and water committee and the police and license committee held a special meeting at the city hall at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon to consider establishing a definite wage schedule for the police and fire department.

Nothing definite was accomplished but the two chairmen Alderman Mike Steinhauser and Alderman C. F. Smith were instructed to meet with Mayor A. C. Rule to prepare another schedule. The committee of three will meet at 2 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the city hall.

JUNIOR CLASS PLAY IS SELECTED THIS WEEK

The complete cast for "Philippe Gets There" junior class play to be presented by Miss Ruth McKennan at Fischers Appleton theatre Feb. 23 was announced Monday after the final try-out.

Aloysius Gage and Donald McMahon will take the parts unfilled at the first tryouts Saturday morning. The leading part will be carried by Robert Rechner, and Miss Nym Handeyside will play opposite the hero. These and others were assigned Saturday.

Rehearsals for the play will be started soon. Miss McKennan, dramatic coach, said. The business staff for the play was elected by the class at a recent meeting.

BLACK CREEK HIGHWAY IS OPENED BY FARMERS

Automobile traffic will be possible in a few days from Appleton to Black Creek, if the work of cleaning the roads is continued by farmers. The main road in the town of Center was cleared for about five miles by William Schmalling and Charles Krueger Saturday. The former opened up about two and a half miles near his farm and Krueger cleared from Wickes corner to Twelve Corners.

Snow fences have been a great benefit this winter farmers believe. Rural carriers reported that where the fences were placed there had been little drifting.

GROSS ROSS PLAYERS IN PARLOR
BEDROOM AND BATH

Thursday evening will see the Gross Ross Players in that laugh riot, Parlor Bedroom and Bath. His play deals with the philanderings of Reggie, a too-much married man. In his efforts to convince his wife that he possesses a fatal attraction for women he finds himself in many compromising positions. It is in these situations that the comedy arises. Its one of the greatest, if not the greatest, laugh show ever written, both in line and situation. It is exasperatingly funny. The principal comedy parts will be in the hands of Miss Ross and Mr. Duffy. As a comedienne Miss Ross ranks among the best on the stage today and in Parlor Bedroom and Bath she is given ample opportunity.

The Gross Ross Players presented Parlor Bedroom and Bath with extraordinary success in Milwaukee and because of that included it in their series of play here.

Tonight will see the last performance of "The Gorilla." This mystery sensation has kept Appleton audiences in a constant state of upsurge in each performance thus far. Seats can be reserved in advance.

KOLKER VICE BOSS IN "HELL'S FOUR HUNDRED"

Henry Kolker who has given Fox Film convincing characterizations, is pictured, as John Gilmore in "Hell's Four Hundred," a dramatic screen version of Varghan Kester's "Just and Unjust." A novel of Broadway night life in which Margaret Livingston stars as a refined cabaret girl who frequents The Back Stage Cafe and just manages to keep one jump ahead of the police and the pawnbrokers. This picture will be shown at the New Bijou today and Thursday.

John Gilmore is chief of the vice gang, against which the district attorney has started a relentless campaign. Gilmore plans to use Evelyn Vance, the cabaret girl, as a lure in a trap for the prosecutor but she finds "bigger game," more to her purpose, in Marshall Langham, profligate brother of the prosecutor's fiancée.

Evelyn interests Langham, who forges Gilmore's name to a check and eventually murders him, under such circumstances that the district attorney is suspected and arrested.

While racing out of the city, Langham almost runs down an iceman, and in the first fight which follows, the battling men shift the milking out onto

STATE ADVANCES TO NEW FRONT IN BATTLE ON T. B.

Outagamie Included in List of Counties Aiding in Long Task

Madison—(P)—Intensely pursuing its offensive drive, the state of Wisconsin advanced a new front in 1926 in its six year war on bovine tuberculosis.

A long list of counties has been added to the roll of the state department of agriculture showing that they are included among those enlisted in the fight to eliminate tuberculosis from the Badger state dairy industry.

Continuing towards its goal of completing the testing of Wisconsin's 3,000,000 cattle population by 1931, the department with the cooperation of the federal government concentrated on the Southern Wisconsin areas affected by the restrictions made by Chicago and Milwaukee.

It was in the southern area, according to Commissioner John D. Jones, Jr. that the percentage of infected cattle far exceeded expectations and caused depleted state funds. It necessitated approval of a special session of the legislature of $100,000 last spring, and now is making necessary a request for an additional $750,000 from the state legislature.

The close of 1926 found Wisconsin with 10 counties on the modified accredited list which means less than one-half of one per cent of the cattle are infected with tuberculosis. Twelve have undergone the second general test, and Barron county has been tested three times. Testing in 13 counties is incomplete.

Need of testing in Dane, Jefferson, Racine and Walworth counties is a valuable argument to comply with the health regulations in Chicago and other cities is contemplated in the senate bill asking an appropriation of $750,000 introduced yesterday, according to Senator George W. Hull, White-water, Wis. author.

"We could not change the health regulations in the larger cities if we would," the senator said. "The farmers in these counties are handicapped by not having a clean bill of health for their herds and dairy markets are being closed to them."

Commissioner Jones said that the city of Chicago will soon require that cream used in making ice cream be produced from tested herds.

"A number of large dairy plants, located in southern Wisconsin," he said, "make a specialty of this business, and unless the dairymen supplying these plants are able to comply with the market requirements, their business will be seriously interfered with if not discontinued."

Manitowish will enforce a tuberculosis test requirement beginning May 1, 1927, the commissioner said.

"Since July 1," he pointed out, "complete area tests, under the state-federal cooperative agreement, have been applied in Dunn, Marathon, Rock, Adams, Winnebago, Brown, Waushara, Ozaukee, Outagamie, and Kenosha-coes. Partial area tests have been applied in Fond du Lac, Washington, Milwaukee, Racine, Walworth, Jefferson, Dane, and Sauk-coes. A complete-area test has been applied in Barron-co, and partial tests have been applied in Clark, Trempealeau and Lincoln-coes.

"In addition to the work heretofore mentioned, a large volume of head testing has been carried on largely in the eight Wisconsin counties that do not have area test petitions on file, or in counties whose petitions have been filed, but in which the area test is not immediately contemplated. This very large volume of T. B. Eradication Work, during the last six months of 1926, was due in large part to health ordinance requirements of the cities of Milwaukee, Racine and Kenosha.

Displaying an all-around game of basketball in the final half which scored 13 points while holding Beloit college basketball to a solitary basket and two free tries, Coach George Christoph's Lawrence college cage five opened its Midwest conference season at Army G Tuesday evening by trouncing the State-line collegians, 28-18. It was Beloit's eighth straight conference loss.

In the first half, Beloit, aided by the sharpshooting of a diminutive Irishman, one Kelly Garrigan, held the Blues to a 15-14 score, dropping three straight ringers in the final five minutes of the half. Again in the final period Garrigan lofted Beloit's only ringer as well as one of its two good free tries. The little Irishman scored 11 of Beloit's 15 points for high scorer of the battle and his shooting from the center featured the game.

In the first half, the Blue played ragged ball both on offense and defense, dropping passes and missing shots, as well as the Beloitmen smash through the defense time after time. In the final period the Blues snapped back into form and displayed their real ability by scoring frequently and holding the Beloitmen to a basket but they still allowed Beloit shooters several easy tries at the hoop. The visitors failed to connect by slight margins, however.

Clark and Heideman lead the Blue scorers with 10 and 7 points each and Briese, Grove and Hillman played scarce defensive games. Clark looped three hard shots for his ringers and added four free tries. Heideman got two baskets and three free tries and Grove added two baskets, Briese and Sundt got one each.

Miller took the first tipoff and after Beloit had thrown the ball around a bit outside the Blue defense, the latter shot a long pass and dropped the ball in from under the hoop. Garrigan followed with a side shot and Beloit lead 4-0 in the first minutes. Heidman got Lawrence's first ringer and then Meyer and Sundt missed free throws on fouls by Clark and Dupe. Clark added a point on Meyer's foul and then tagged a one-handed, which dropped in from high up on the bounding board on a side-of-the-floor shot, to give the Blue its first lead. Clark added a second hard try and then Vandolah added two points on Briese's foul. Heidman split two tries on Meyer's foul and Dupe missed on Sundt's foul. Briese and Garrigan scored baskets in quick succession and Clark got a point on Meyer's fourth personal. With the score 13-6 for the Blue, Vandolah dropped a ringer and Garrigan scored two more in quick succession, all long tries, to end the half, 15-14.

Heidman opened the new half with a ringer and Briese scored a point on Dupe's foul. Heidman took the tip-off and raced to the basket but missed the try. Clark followed it and capped the leather. Grove jerked the ball from a Beloit man and passed to Heidman who was fouled under the basket by Darling. He split the two throws and Briese missed one on Miller's foul. Grove fouled and Miller missed a try. Grove added a basket and Briese made a free throw on Clark's foul. Garrigan missed two on Clark's foul and Vandolah missed one on Grove's misplay. Clark split even on Darling's foul and Portz did the same for Miller. Garrigan split even on Clark's foul and Miller did the same for Portz. MacAuliffe Leads Milwaukee Team to Easy, 31-11 Win at Clintonville Clintonville — The Clintonville Athletic Club cagers fell before the speedy Swendson Fords, undefeated Milwaukee pro squad, by a score of 31-11 here Monday evening. In the first quarter the Athletics held the Fords well in hand with a score of 9-4, but soon the Milwaukeeans got started and with Dunn, Nash, O'Connor and MacAuliffe dropping ringers the score was 15-4 at the half. The home boys were held scoreless the second period. Bentzler and Schwanke counted for Clintonville during the opening half. In the third quarter the Fords started a drive which ended the period, 25-3, with the home crew scoring one point to ten for Milwaukee. In the final quarter the visitors outwitted their rivals with snappy passing and teamwork, taking a 6-2 period. MacAuliffe lead the invaders with 12 points and O'Connor and Dunn added three baskets apiece. O'Connor's floorwork and defense was a feature for Milwaukee. Schwanke at guard, Bentzler, forward, played the best games for Clintonville. Bentzler, forward, played the best games for Clintonville. Bentzler, forward, played the best games for Clintonville.

"BUSTER" CLARK

Scoring three hard baskets and four free tries Tuesday evening against the Beloit college cagers, "Buster" Clark, Lawrence college forward, lead his teammates to a 28-18 victory in their Midwest conference opener at Army G. Clark scored 10 points of the 28 and Heideman, the other forward, added 7. Grove scored two baskets and Briese and Sundt, one each.

LUTZ FALLS TO 5TH IN VALLEY SCORING

Orange Forward Drops from 2nd by Scoring Single Point Friday

As the result of scoring only a single free try against Manitowoc last Friday while three Ship rivals were dropping ringers from all angles, Herbie Lutz, Appleton high school forward, fell from second place to a fifth place tie in the Valley conference race for scoring honors. Fishbeck of Manitowoc, fourth in the standings with 15, scored three baskets and three free throws, to shoot to second with 24. His teammate, Brennan, who was third with 16, stayed in third with 20 by scoring two baskets. Peppard, a third Ship star, who was way down in eighth with 12 scored, three baskets and two free tries to tie Brennan for third. Bobby Testudine, Sheboygan's ace, added six field goals to his mark against Marinette and now has 16 of the double markers in three games, or an average of 5 a game. This makes him an easy first, 11 points ahead of the field. While Lutz made a single point, Giebel of Fondy in fifth with 13 points added a basket and a free try to tie the Orange player. Lutz in fifth, with 18. Norville of E. Green Bay, held scoreless, dropped from sixth to tenth.

The standings:

For the third successive week eyes of Valley conference high school basketball followers will be on the Appleton high cage squad, which battles the loop-leading Fondy high crew here Friday night at Army G. Two weeks ago Appleton and Sheboygan, both undefeated, clashed and the Orange eliminated the Chairs in an overtime game. Last week Appleton invaded Manitowoc to play another of the leading contenders, and took a drubbing which left Fondy alone on top of the conference with the only clean slate of the eight teams.

Friday Fondy comes to Appleton for a first time battle. An Appleton win will tie the Orange, Fondy and Manitowoc, which should wallop East Green Bay on the home or where it beat Appleton, for the top. Sheboygan does not play, so the Chairs will be temporarily forced into fourth from second, through lack of the extra game played.

Fondy by a win, will be alone on top, with Manitowoc, second, Sheboygan, third, and Appleton fourth. With the game being played here, Appleton, after its poor playing of the last two games, has a slim chance to stop the Red pliedriver attack which has been piling up 20-point wins in its conference battles. Appleton has played games of poor ball and is about due for a comeback, though Fondy has a vet squad including three regulars and a sub of last year, all stars of the 1926 loop champs.

Manitowoc is an easy favorite over East Green Bay and the Oshkosh. West high game seems to be a tossup. West is a slight favorite because of its surprising victory over East last week, when it defeated its ancient rival by some 10 points, in a game in which the Redmen were expected to have a slight edge.

Appleton's lineup still is a problem because of injuries and the poor play of several regulars, but Coach Shields expects to have his men ready for the big Red invasion. As at Manitowoc it is a safe bet that in case the regulars fail to function right, the subs will get plenty of chance to see action against Fondy. Manis, all conference center last year, Watson, Hanson and Giebel are vets of last year's championship team and all are better-than-average cagers.

The swap is said to involve pitchers Sam Jones and Walter Beall, of the Yankees and outfielder Cedric Durst and pitcher Joe Giard of the Browns. A trade last December in which the Yankees offered Jones, Beall and a third pitcher for Durst, Giard and either McManus of Robertson, infielders, fell through when the Yanks failed to obtain Pitcher Stewart, of the Toronto Internationals to complete the deal, the writers said.

Two Right-Hand Batsmen Stand Out In National

New York—In the more than 50 years that the National League has been doing business at the old stand, two right-handed batters stand out among the list of batting champions. It is almost unnecessary to say those two gentlemen are Rogers Hornsby, recently traded by St. Louis to New York, and Hans Wagner, who played his last game for the Pittsburgh Pirates. Until the coming of Rogers Hornsby,

THREE SEASONS

TAYLOR DOUTHITT

St. Louis—Few of the highly-touted spring baseball phenoms stick in the majors. Outfielder Taylor Douthitt of the St. Louis Cardinals is one of the exceptions.

"A second Tris Speaker," is what the experts wrote of Douthitt two years ago when they looked the youngster over in training. He is coming, mighty close to living up to that reputation.

Douthitt was secured by the Cardinals in the spring of 1924 from the University of California. Two years in the minors for seasoning and he returned ready to win a regular berth.

Ho at once displaced Heinie Mueller, the Cards' center fielder.

His judgment is Speakeresque in every phase of his play. He gets his ball on a perfectly-timed journey.

NEENAH CAGERS WANT MORE VALLEY GAMES

Any cage squad of the Fox river valley still seeking for a game can get battles by getting in touch with Walter Kuehl, Neenah, manager of the Walther league team of Trinity Lutheran church. Kuehl issues a challenge to all valley squads especially those of the Appleton Y. M. C. A. Industrial league, except the Riverside Paper Co. and Fox River Paper Co., both of which have met the Lutherans. Kuehl desires games in Neenah. A special challenge is issued to the Galpin Hardware, Kaukauna Y. M. C. A., Kimberly-Clark Industrials, Co. D. Coated Paper Co., and Citizens Banks.

Pop Warner Turns From Football To Golf Links

BY W. C. ETHERIDGE
Stanford University—Glenn Schooby "Pop" Warner.

To most persons that name means football. Warner, teams, the Warner system, and Warner plays, are working parts of the vocabulary of every gridiron fan.

This story purports to reveal the secret passion of Pop Warner, the ambition to devise, by scientific tests and observations, a wooden driver that will enable the old and rheumatic, as well as the young and flamboyant, to drive a golf ball a distance to compare with Jim Barnes and the other great hitters of golfdom.

The football season finished, Warner fixes himself at the little workshop behind his residence in Palo Alto and with a knife, plane, saw and other carpenter tools works on that driver. It is revealed here in all its pristine glory plus a little varnish and shellac.

Compared with the modern wood club in the hands of Pop, the difference in shape is noticeable. Warner's philosophy as applied to golf and golfing equipment is as follows:

"Golf was devised by the shepherd in the Scottish hills. Probably he used his shepherd's crook to hit round rocks with. The Scotch have always been conservative. The golf club today resembles the crook with the end of the curve cut off.

"This club of mine differs from the orthodox in that the handles goes into the side of the clubhead as a separate piece and the end of it is nearly in the center of the hitting surface. Thus, when you hit with my club you hit at the handle, the same as you do in baseball. That promotes accuracy and aids power.

"The surface of the club is nearly flat, lacking the backward slant of the ordinary driver, and the face is not as large. That cuts down air resistance.

"On the ordinary club the head is oval with one side surfaced. There is, of course, only one spot where the ball may be hit to impart the greatest drive. That is near the dead center of the club face. Draw a line straight back and you find it is a very short weight you can give your ball. When you hit off the back or handle or the front or toe of the club and draw a line directly to the back of the club you find the reason for slices and cuts.

"This club of mine is elongated and has a metal button at the back or driving center. Because it is longer, your driving center is elongated. Thus, if I hit off part of the surface, the ball is not so prone to hook or slice because my driving center is further back and is also weighted, giving greater velocity to the ball."

The real golf bug will understand these explanations by Warner.

SUBSTITUTE BOXER IN OSHKOSH FIGHT

Illness of Kid Blaettler Causes Change for Better on Card

Oshkosh —A break of circumstances, which many local boxing fans believe will tend to improve the Legion boxing card, scheduled for Friday night at the Armory, has necessitated negotiations for a substitute for Ivan "Kid" Blaettler, who was to meet Billy Light of St. Paul in the final bout of the double windup.

The Legion promoters received word from Marshallfield, that Blaettler was ill and would not be in condition to fight here Friday.

Immediately the Legion matchmaker burned a message over the wire to Chicago and it was expected that a new opponent for Light would be signed early today.

Legion committeemen do not believe the change will injure the card, but fully expect that the substitution will improve it. Blaettler is a good fighter, as his record indicates, but there has been some skepticism among local fans, due to the fact that the Marshallfield battler was knocked out in his last appearance at Milwaukee. The illness of Blaettler, therefore, has given the Legion an opportunity to sign a battler who will more completely win the approval of local fans.

LITTLE CHUTE HIGH TROUNCES KIMBERLY

Winners Squeeze Out 19-18 Win When Kimberly Rallies at Close

Kimberly —The Kimberly high school squad lost a hard-fought battle to Little Chute high school Tuesday afternoon at the Clubhouse by a 19-18 score. Little Chute led 11-5 at the close of the second period but a last half rally by Kimberly seriously threatened Little Chute's lead. Vandenberg scored 10 of Little Chute's points. R. Verstegen and H. Verstegen caged two baskets apiece and H. Verstegen added a free throw. Gossens starred for Kimberly with four baskets and a free throw. Verbeten caged two ringers. Vander Velden one and Courchane a free throw.

Lineups were:
Little Chute—Huntington, J. Verstegen and R. Verstegen, forwards; Vandenberg, center and H. Verstegen, Wildenberg and Schuur, guards.
Kimberly—Courchane and Gossens, forwards; Verbeten, center and Vander Velden, Williams, LaBerge and Schertz, guards.

Possession Of Ball Plus Teamwork Helps To Quint

BY MARTY FRIEDMAN
Coach, World Champions

Once his men are in condition, the work of the coach turns to the fundamentals of the game. Teamwork is the foundation on which any successful basketball team is built. The ideal combination is one that functions as a unit. Players should be trained to help each other as occasion demands.

A strong defense, in my opinion, is more important than a strong offense. Although each player functions as an individual on defense, in that he takes care of his own opponent, he must be coached to help his teammates also. Many occasions arise in each game where a player finds it necessary, if he is to regain possession of the ball for his team, to guard some player other than his own. Thus, he must be taught to shift, during emergency, to the closest man who is "open." Four are Getting possession of the ball is half the game, for without the ball there could be no scoring and without scoring you could never hope to win. That is why I rate the defense above offense, for a good defensive team will have possession of the ball most of the time and this in itself strengthens the offense.

I teach the man-for-man style of defense, but give my players the freedom to act for themselves in emergencies.

Speed should be the chief offensive weapon in advancing the ball toward the goal. And there must be mental to win as well as physical speed. By mental speed I mean ability to "think ahead" of your opponents.

I teach the use of short, snappy passes in working the ball toward the goal. I train my men to pass while moving and to pass to a player who is also moving. I try to always have the player receiving the pass moving toward the passer. This lessens the chances for the opposition to intercept passes. The course of the ball should generally be in zig-zag line toward the goal.

I discourage long passes and shooting from long distances. Chances of losing the ball to your opponents are greater in both instances than if you work the ball under or near the basket by short, snappy passes.

There are exceptions, of course, when long shots may be made, but these exceptions merely go to prove the general rule. Long shots should be used chiefly to draw the defense from under its own goal. By mixing up the style of attack you can "loosen" the defense, and by this method a tight defense may be pierced to the point where an occasional shot from under the basket is possible.

The winning essential of a winning team is the will to win on the part of the players themselves. The best coach in the world would turn out a losing team of the players did not have an aggressive spirit and a desire to win.

Readers of Appleton Post-Crescent-- A LOOK BEHIND THE SCENES IN THE NEWSPAPER BUSINESS

WHEN 1927 dawned the 35th year in the history of a great organization which contributes vitally to the dominance in Appleton of the newspaper which you are now reading.

The name of this organization is NEA Service—the “NEA” being a symbol for “Newspaper Enterprise Association.”

The purpose of this advertisement and others to follow is to tell readers of The Post-Crescent something about the nature of NEA Service—what it is, what it does, how it does it—and of its importance to the newspaper-reading public.

No one man, no dozen men, no hundred men could collect all of the world's important news, in story and picture, over a period of 24 hours.

No one newspaper could prepare solely for its own use, within essential limits of time and economy, all the so-called “features” which are necessary to informative, entertaining completeness in the modern daily.

Therefore The Post-Crescent's own immediate staff is reinforced by news and feature services which know no bounds of contact or communication, no limitations of productive effort—

Services which can reach across the seven seas for news as easily as they can reach across a city or county, and which, because they are working for many newspapers at once, can prepare features of the utmost distinctiveness without the cost of them to any one editor becoming prohibitive.

Telegraphic news services supply part of this assistance which every local newspaper staff must have.

NEA Service is an agency—the greatest of its kind ever conceived and put into successful operation—which carries the expansion of newspaper “coverage” on into myriad other fields.

Its personnel comprises a group of the most brilliant and capable writers, photographers and artists to be found anywhere in the entire newspaper business.

The list of papers for which they work is a selected one. There is only one NEA paper in any one city.

YOU GET THESE NEA PRODUCTS ONLY IN APPLETON POST-CRESCENT IN APPLETON

Pictures, news and human interest, from all over the globe.

Feature stories — news about exceptionally interesting people, puzzling situations, public events of outstanding importance, and the like.

News from the scientific world.

News of the sports world, gathered by the best of sports specialists.

Departmental features for woman's pages, editorial pages, and so forth — fashion articles, health advice, special columns, cartoons and many others.

Comic page features such as Major Hoople, Out Our Way, Salesman Sam and others.

The above list of tasks done for The Post-Crescent by NEA Service every day by no means is complete. But it illustrates the wide scope of NEA's activities.

Just how the various departments of NEA function—how they go about helping visualize for you, through The Post-Crescent, what is going on in the world—will be told in later advertisements.

Observe, however, that the middle name of this great news-gathering and feature-preparing organization is “Enterprise.”

Thruout its 34 years of experience, enterprise has marked every contribution which NEA Service has made to newspaperdom's phenomenal progress—and these contributions have been many.

Affiliation with NEA Service time after time has enabled The Post-Crescent to score tremendous “beats” with story and picture news.

Not in all its 34 years of enterprising accomplishment has NEA failed to keep well ahead of such competitors as it has. This fact promises much for readers of The Post-Crescent in the year just beginning.

It promises that The Post-Crescent will have expert, dependable aid in giving its readers more and more for the few cents a week that a subscription costs.

FATHER HUNTLEY By Gladys A. Hummerley Mr. Huntley was the proud father of a newborn baby boy and that morning he dressed feverishly. He was still excited when he started down the street towards his office. "Hello, Father," said somebody. Huntley beamed. "Why everybody seemed to know that he was a father—even this stranger!" "Good morning, Father," said the next man he met—another perfect stranger. Huntley began to wonder a little. Surely the news wasn't all over town already? "Oh, how do you do, Father," a girl called gayly from a passing motor car. "Thanks! Fine! How'd you hear about it?" Huntley called after her. "Hello, Father," shouted a man in working clothes from across the street. "Hello," Huntley gasped. He was beginning to feel a bit puzzled. "How are you, Father?" asked the corner policeman, respectfully. "Great! Here, my good man—have

NEW LONDON READY FOR CITY FESTIVAL SUNDAY AND MONDAY

Menzie Shoe Company Puts New Factory at Disposal of Citizens

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The Menzie Shoe company put its new factory building at the disposal of the city for a two day's festival and exhibition. This festival will be given at the new factory on Sunday and Monday, and it is hoped that all organizations, all business houses and individuals will join in to make it a gala event. The proceeds of the two days will be turned over to the New London Community hospital.

The floor space of the building is 25,000 square feet. Booths for concessions are being built under the direction of George Ruppel, chairman of the general committee. Others who are actively aiding to make the festival a success are Dr. John Mensted, Jr., who is in charge of advertising and management of the booth, Norman J. Ortleb, chairman of vaudeville sketches, and Leo Reel, who is in charge of the concessions.

SOCIETIES SERVE LUNCHEONS
The ladies of the Congregational church will serve ice cream and the Methodist ladies will be in charge of other refreshments. The festival will be served by the Community Hospital auxiliary.

Under the direction of Alfred Schuman, the 40-piece high school band will furnish music at the afternoon session on Sunday. An interesting program of music, vaudeville and original playlets will be presented Sunday afternoon.

Perhaps the crowning event of the two days full program will be the dance Monday night at which Hoiers nine piece orchestra will provide the music. The usual six piece orchestra has for this occasion been augmented by several additional and the floor is being prepared for dancing.

No recent event has elicited such wide interest, and cooperation is coming in from most unexpected points. Teachers, society workers and the general public are showing much interest.

NEW LONDON SOCIETY

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The L. M. Five-hundred club was entertained Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ralph Weyman. Mrs. James Bodin and Mrs. Earl Currie were awarded prizes. Mrs. Ed Kleinbrook will be hostess to the club at the next meeting Monday, Feb. 7.

Mrs. Otto Lemke entertained the members of the Autumn Leaf club on Tuesday afternoon. First prize was awarded to Mrs. G. C. Seaton, second to Mrs. Walter Raslike, and consolation to Mrs. J. W. Mensted. Mrs. Mensted will be hostess to the club on Tuesday, Feb. 8.

The Ladies Aid of the Congregational church will hold its next meeting with Mrs. F. J. Pfeiffer on Wednesday, Feb. 2. The hostess will be assisted by Messrs. A. M. Hutchinson, P. L. Zaig, J. C. Dawson, A. Runcorn and E. Lutsey.

The first of a series of benefit afternoons at which members of the American Legion Auxiliary will be hostesses at their homes was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. D. E. Hagman. Mrs. Egan was assisted by Mrs. Bert Schaller and Mrs. Arthur Ziener. Five tables of bridge were in play, prizes being awarded to Mrs. W. J. Butler and Mrs. John Croak. The next of the series will be given in the near future.

Mrs. Harley Heath was hostess to a "Friends-Thursday" afternoon at her home on Division-st. in honor of her sister, Mrs. W. N. Bowes of Milwaukee. Five-hundred furnished the entertainment of the afternoon, prizes being awarded to Mrs. Leonard Polaski and Mrs. Ray Thomas.

PROGRESS OF ROTARY DISCUSSED AT MEET

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The subject of discussion at the meeting of the Rotary club Monday afternoon dealt with the expansion of Rotary throughout the world. Several speakers were assigned to investigate the progress of this organization in different groups of nations. They included Dr. F. S. Loss, Joe Vandenberg, Rev. F. S. Dayton, R. J. McMahon and Ben Hartquist.

F. A. Archibald was speaker at the meeting of the Lions club Tuesday.

MISS LUCILLE QUANDT BREAKS ARM IN FALL

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Miss Lucille Quandt, a sophomore in the local high school, suffered a painful accident at the noon dismissal Monday. As she stepped on the walk leaving the building, she slipped and fell, breaking her left arm. She was given surgical attention immediately and the broken member put into a cast.

THEN IT HAPPENED
Smoking was forbidden during working hours in the local government offices. "One day the official came into a room and found all the clerks smoking."

BANDIT VICTIM

Mrs. A. A. Monty, formerly of New London, who was shot while resisting two holdup men at Wittenberg, Texas. The two bandits, leaving the third in an automobile which was left at the curb, entered the combined garage and service station of Mr. and Mrs. Monty in the little Texas village. While the robbers were rifling the cash register Mrs. Monty attempted to enter the home, adjoining the garage, in order to hide money which had been left there. When she refused to obey the gunmen's order to stay where she was and to keep her hands up, both began shooting, and Mrs. Monty fell instantly killed. The funeral was held Saturday at New London.

DISCUSS MEMORIAL FOR WAR VETERANS

Legion and Auxiliary Hold Joint Meeting—Hope to Interest Public

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—The regular monthly joint meeting of the American Legion and the American Legion Auxiliary was held in Legion hall with a large attendance present. An open discussion was held during the business session in regard to the movement for a memorial for veterans of all wars. A general committee, which was appointed some time ago, will begin work soon and every effort will be made to interest the general public in this movement.

The sum of $50 already has been raised toward the memorial budget, and the committee of legion members will announce a program to increase this budget as soon as its plans are completed. Following the business session Miss Betty Garot appeared in an entertaining musical selection with Miss Mildred at the piano. Mrs. Milton Ullrich then favored the audience with a pleasing vocal selection accompanied by Mrs. L. Meyerdon. Ellis N. Caffel spoke on his experiences during the world war as a "four minute" man. A program of pep singing led by Mrs. Ullrich and accompanied by Mrs. L. Meyerdon, furnished entertainment, while the veteran "K. P." prepared lunch. Dancing, with music by the Legion orchestra concluded the evening's program.

MONTHLY CLINIC AT CLINTONVILLE

Only 6 Out of 22 Children Are Found Without Defects in Examinations

Clintonville—Twenty-two children were examined at the health clinic held at the city hall. Of these only six were found to be normal in every respect, while many defects of which the parents were unaware, were found in the others. Dr. Calvert of Madison, and Mrs. Hazel Burton, county nurse, were in charge of the clinic. They were aided by three members of the Woman's club, Mrs. Herman Larson, Mrs. J. W. Devine, and Miss Amelia Metzner. The next clinic will be held in February.

The W. C. T. U. will meet on Friday at the home of Mrs. Elmer Plopper on North Main-st. The members of the Ladies Aid society will meet in the M. E. church parlors next Thursday. Mrs. W. A. Olsen will be hostess.

The Eastern Star held its regular meeting Tuesday evening at the Masonic temple.

The Rotary club met at the Ward house at noon Monday for its regular weekly luncheon session. The Rev. Fr. Diebold repeated his talk on the Great Wall of China, which he gave at a recent Lion's club meeting. W. A. Weak, Tired No Appetite

"I was weak and always tired when I began taking Vinol. I had no appetite at all. When I had finished two bottles, I felt like a new woman."—Lucy Stovall.

Vinol is a simple iron and cod-liver compound, prescribed for over 25 years for weak, nervous men and women and sickly children. It gives you more strength, makes you eat better, sleep better. Just ONE bottle often shows surprising results. Very pleasant to take. Voigt's Drug Store.

GOVERNOR AND 'CABINET' TALK HELP FOR FARM

Zimmerman Holds Closed Session With Advisors on Agricultural Relief

Madison—(P)—Carrying out his legislative program for periodic "cabinet" meetings, representatives of several state departments have concluded a closed door session with Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman for joint discussion centering about farm relief.

Constructive legislation which might be brought to the aid of Wisconsin farmers was discussed by the group, which included the state treasurer, the railroad commissioner, the commissioner of agriculture and representatives of the banking and insurance departments.

Announcement of the steps taken by the "cabinet" was made Wednesday in an official statement from the governor's office. The meeting was held Monday.

DISCUSS INSURANCE
Among other important matters discussed was the recent action of risk companies in the general cancellation of insurance on farm property in certain portions of the state, and ways and means of meeting this situation.

A report from the banking commissioner, the official statement said, "brought out the fact that only 40 banks have come under the supervision of his department during the past six years, while from six to ten times that number have failed in some of our neighboring states. Of the 40 failures nearly one-half have been, or in the near future will be, reopened. It was also stated that the failure was due to mismanagement rather than depressing economic conditions. This indicates a more general stability in Wisconsin, due probably to the diversification which is the dominant feature of our agricultural policy."

"Consideration was also given to the subject of farm taxation, and statistics were presented to show that the farmer actually pays a very much higher percentage of his net income in taxes than any other business or industry in the state."

RAILROAD REPORT
"An interesting report was furnished by the chairman of the railroad commission, who showed the far-reaching effect of transportation particularly on agriculture."

In the past few years the commission has followed the principle of entering proceedings before the Interstate Commerce commission on behalf of Wisconsin farm interests. A number of important cases, including the proposition of the carriers to abolish the differential between coarse grain and wheat, and which product rates, involving increased freight charges, have been defeated. The minimum requirement for loading of hogs was reduced through the efforts of the Wisconsin commission in a way which effected a very substantial saving to hog growers."

"The commodity cheese rates which have been in effect from Wisconsin points to quinine, these points for more than twenty-five years were sought to be canceled by the carriers. This was resisted in belief of the farmers by the Wisconsin Railroad commission and was defeated before the Interstate Commerce Commission. The proposed change would have increased freight rates on cheese shipments."

In the case of the Wisconsin commission, together with the commissioners of states west of the Mississippi, united and secured the dismissal of the carrier's petition to increase general freight rates 25 per cent. Now the commission has instituted an original action for the reduction of cheese rates generally. Wisconsin produces more than 75 per cent of all the cheese in the United States, and last year it produced 366,000,000 pounds. If the commission is successful and succeeds in reducing the cheese rates from 30 to 35 per cent, it will effect an unusual saving."

"In most cases the chairman of the Wisconsin Commission was invited to sit in with the Interstate Commerce commission in the discussion and fair disposal of the cases. A careful estimate, based on figures obtainable by the commission indicates that as a result of these activities, there has been an approximate saving in freight rate charges of $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 annually."

H. S. STUDENTS TOLD HOW TO AVOID T. B.
Clinic Physician Urges Young People to Attend Examination

Health habits to prevent tuberculosis were stressed by Dr. T. L. Harrington of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association, at a general assembly meeting at Appleton high school Tuesday afternoon. Dr. Harrington was scheduled to speak on Wednesday, but the date was changed so that students would have an opportunity to hear about the chest clinic conducted by the association at Appleton Womans club Tuesday and Wednesday. Several students attended the clinic Tuesday.

Among the health points discussed by the doctor were: "Proper care of the teeth, proper food, including more vegetables and fruit, milk as a diet which will consist of at least a pint and if possible a quart a day, and no stimulants such as coffee, tea, etc. Americans eat far too much sugar for their health. Dr. Harrington stated."

Students who are overweight, underweight, have relatives with tuberculosis or are living in homes with people afflicted with the disease were urged to attend the clinic. Not only the lungs but also the heart, tonsils and teeth are examined, the physician said.

MERCURY TUMBLES TO 14 BELOW ZERO IN NEW COLD SNAP

A cold wave which sent the mercury on the official Schlatter Hardware Co. thermometer to 14 degrees below zero early Wednesday morning, started in Appleton Tuesday evening. Unofficial reports had the mercury down as far as 25 degrees below at 6:30 Wednesday morning. This temperature was reported in the west end junction area where the wind gets a clean sweep, while residents of Bellair park claimed 17 as the low limit.

At 8 o'clock the official thermometer showed 10 below and by noon the mercury had risen to 3 below, with prospects of remaining around the zero mark all day. The cold will let up slightly Thursday, the forecast for today and tomorrow said. The forecast is fair Wednesday evening and Thursday, but with some cloudiness, not so cold Thursday and in west portion Wednesday night.

PICK STRONG CAST FOR MUSICAL PLAY

Well Known Actors Sing Leading Parts in Benefit for Artillery Band

The cast of the dramatic section of "Mary Lou" musical comedy, presented Feb. 13 and 14 at Fischel's Appleton theatre by a cast of local professional and semi-professional players has been announced by J. R. Bannister of the Bannister studios.

Miss Viola Foster will play the name role of the play, and J. E. Murphy and J. R. Bannister will take important male parts. Rehearsals for the show were started ten days ago under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. Bannister.

Others in the dramatic cast will be Mrs. Berta Berry, Miss Myrtle Lucder, Mrs. Gustave Keller, Mr. Albert C. Hipp, Martin J. Van Roy, Rodney Fox, G. L. Chamberlain, Miss Grace Dwyer, and dancing sections also are rehearsing.

The dancing chorus of 20 persons is composed of pupils of the Bannister Dancing academy and the male chorus of 40 voices consists chiefly of students at Lawrence conservatory of music.

"Mary Lou" will be staged for the benefit of the 120th Field Artillery band and will be sponsored by merchants and organizations of Appleton.

EXAMINE 75 PERSONS AT FREE CHEST CLINIC

About 75 persons were examined up to noon Wednesday at the free chest clinic, which was conducted by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association and sponsored by Appleton Womans club.

Many of these were exceptionally interesting cases but few active cases of tuberculosis were found. Dr. T. L. Harrington, examining physician reported.

Several persons came from the rural districts to attend the clinic. Dr. Harrington was at the head of the clinic and was assisted by Dr. W. J. Harrington and Dr. Frank Brockway of Oshkosh. City and county public health nurses and social workers assisted the association, assisted the physicians.

No active cases of tuberculosis were found among children examined, it was reported.

REELECT OFFICERS OF POULTRY ASSOCIATION
Old officers of the Fox River Valley Poultry and Pet stock association were re-elected at the annual meeting held Tuesday night at the Womans club. George Loos was reelected president; George Lausman, vice president; John Goodland, secretary-treasurer. Members of the board are Christ Driesang, William Myse, R. Pfund, Dan Leppa and Otto Thiesen.

A report was given on the poultry show which was held Jan. 12 to 16 at the armory. George Wells of Oshkosh was named judge of the poultry show to be held Jan. 10 to 16, 1928 and Mr. Fransens was chosen judge for the pigeon show.

CLINIC EXAMINERS ARE GUESTS AT LUNCHEON
Examining physicians at the free chest clinic, conducted by the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association, held in Appleton Tuesday and Wednesday were entertained at a luncheon at the Conway hotel Tuesday noon. Dr. T. L. Harrington, is chief of the examining staff, and is assisted by Dr. W. J. Harrington, also of the association, and Dr. Frank Brockway of Oshkosh.

Other guests at the luncheon were assisting nurses at the clinic, the health committee from the Appleton Womans club which sponsored the clinic, members of the city and county medical staffs and visiting social workers of the association. An informal discussion of the work of the association was held during the luncheon.

POSTPONE 1ST GAMES IN NETBALL TOURNEY
Opening game in the inter-scholastic netball tournament of the Y. M. C. A., scheduled for Wednesday evening, have been postponed a week, according to A. P. Jensen, physical director. The tourney will start Wednesday evening, Feb. 2. The team which will represent Appleton in the state meet this year will be chosen from the interclass competition.

WRISTON GIVES TWO TALKS AT WAUKESHA
Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college, will make two addresses at Waukesha Thursday. What Is An Education will be his subject at the commencement exercises of the city high school in the evening. He will speak at a meeting of the Kiwanis club at noon on The Department of State.

CAPACITY CROWD ENJOYS CONCERT

Artillery Band Presents Excellent Program in College Chapel

Before a crowd which practically filled Lawrence Memorial chapel, the 120th Field Artillery band, played one of its best concerts of the year Tuesday evening. The clarinet solo, "Erwin" by Orville J. Thompson, former member of John Phillip Sousa's military band, was the feature of the program. The band accompaniment of the solo was excellent.

The climax of the program was the overture, Richard Wagner's "Rienzi," in which the band handled well the many difficult developments of harmony. Another feature was songs by a quartet of Lawrence college students, Madge Helmer, Eleanor McKibbin, Roger Benedict and James Archie.

A regrettable feature of the concert was the constant whispering and disturbance of some of the audience which partly spoiled the music for the real listeners. Members of the band deplored the condition and are anxious to have quiet at future concerts.

COLLEGE DEBATE TEAMS AT CHILTON HIGH SCHOOL
A second practice debate will be given by affirmative and negative teams of Lawrence college before Chilton high school students Thursday afternoon. The first practice meet was held at Brillion last week. Four teams have been coached at the school this year by Prof. A. L. Franzke of the public speaking department.

The first intercollegiate meet of the year will be before the Kiwanis club of Menasha, on Thursday, Feb. 3. Two men from the negative squad of Lawrence college, of Los Angeles, Calif., will debate two men from the affirmative group at Lawrence. The question will be on the enactment of the McNary-Haugen farm relief bill into federal legislation. The Kiwanis clubs of Neenah will be guests at the luncheon and debate.

LAWRENCE COEDS TO HAVE PIN TOURNAMENT
A bowling tournament for Lawrence college coeds for April 11 to 15 at the Y. M. C. A. alleys will be managed by Miss Maude Lockard, of Oshkosh, a junior at the school, announcement has been made. Teams will be entered from each of the four classes and a second squad probably will play for some of the classes.

Miss Amy Hovser and Miss Helen Ziegler of Appleton, have served as managers of the junior and freshmen teams, Miss Lockard of the sophomore squad and Miss Lois Manchester of Racine, the senior.

A school volleyball team also has been selected. Members are Esther Ziegler, Mary Ellen Bond, of Appleton, Irene Fullerton of Kewaunee, Ill., Katherine Hubbard of West Allis, Mildred Christman of Tony, and Helen Frederickson of Neenah.

GIVE FIRST SEMESTER WORK IN SECOND PERIOD
New sections of one semester courses will be offered at Wilson junior high school during the second term to those who have not had the work, according to the program of the curriculum recently completed. Many of the elective courses are planned for one semester in order to allow a maximum number of pupils to take the work under a minimum number of teachers. Printing classes will be among these open to new groups this semester.

Final examinations are being given this week, and the second semester will be started Monday morning. Programs of the pupils have been arranged in advance in order to start the work of the term without delay, the principal said.

COMPLETE AUDIT
Auditing of city books and records was completed Tuesday evening by Carl Becher and G. E. Gates. They have been at work for ten days. A report is being prepared and will be presented to the common council at its next meeting.

PROBES' REPORT GOES TO COUNCIL COMMITTEE
The report on the findings of the special citizens committee appointed by Mayor A. C. Rule to investigate the M. T. Shaw Shoe company of Racine, which may locate in Appleton, will be examined at a meeting of the industrial committee of the common council in the city hall at 7 o'clock Wednesday evening.

The special committee spent two weeks investigating the firm and also spent a day at Racine making further investigations there.

The industrial committee probably will do one of two things. It will either refer the report to the common council or will authorize the mayor to call another public mass-meeting and put the matter before the people.

CLOSE SCHOOL ON ZERO DAY BECAUSE JANITOR IS SICK

A sick janitor and a dead furnace caused Franklin school to be closed Wednesday morning. With the sudden cold wave extra firing was necessary and no one was available to manage the heat plant. It was expected that the furnace would be started by noon so that pupils could attend in the afternoon.

WANT U. W. GRADS TO TAKE LAW TESTS
Legislature Asked to Remove Discrimination Against Other Schools

Madison—(P)—In its short session Tuesday afternoon, the assembly saw the introduction of less than a dozen bills. Prominent among these was the measure of Assemblyman Spott, Milwaukee, regarding admission to the bar. State university law students automatically admitted to the bar upon presentation of the diploma, would be compelled under Mr. Spott's measure to take the regular bar examiners' tests.

An identical bill was killed in the 1923 session. The point of contention was admission of holders of certificates from the state law school while graduates of Marquette university had to take the tests.

Assemblyman Husband was author of a bill relating to taxes for high schools, the bill striking out the application of school law taxes to "joint towns" and inserting therefor "union" schools.

Assemblyman Jungers introduced a bill requiring a receipt for court fees and Husband was author of another bill, relating to the term of court in the eleventh judicial district.

Other bills and their authors were: Lang: Relating to leases for the conservation commission in a certain township.

Holker: Relating to police pension funds, making the limit $200,000 instead of $50,000 as at present.

Rothel: Relating to fish nets and kinds of fish to be taken with certain sized nets.

Rhughans: Repealing a section of the statutes relating to apportionment of public utilities taxes to school districts.

Budong: Conveying to Marinette a certain plot of land, about eleven acres for park purposes.

Hilt: Relating to apportionment of taxes, making appeal possible from the tax commission's assessment of county and city property.

Rothel: Compelling patters of land adjoining villages as well as those of land adjoining cities of the second, third and fourth classes, and is open to anyone interested. Suggestions will be offered and a discussion of methods of keeping the highways clear will occur. The hearings are expected to attend.

The project has been given for this year, it is said, but an attempt will be made to get an early start for next year. This year no thought was given to the matter until after the snow fell.

BEGIN HUNT FOR SLAIN WOMAN'S BODY

cerning the Madison bond salesman who deserted his wife and three children in Madison for the La Crosse woman, widow of a railroad engineer, comes from Des Moines.

CORPEY BANDIT CLAIM
Information has been received at Des Moines that Mrs. T. J. Foster of Guthrie Center, Iowa, recognized Coffey as the man who robbed her mother, Mrs. H. A. Magart, in Des Moines, of $600 in 1923, after she had befriended him. Coffey pleaded guilty and was sentenced to three and one half years in state prison.

FAMILY DESERTS SLAYER
Deserted by his family, Coffey languishes in the county jail here while the authorities of two states decide the veracity of his statement that he committed the crime in Wisconsin. They are inclined to believe the man who ended by a desire to escape hanging in Iowa, where convicted murderers are either executed or sent to prison for life.

Throughout the questioning by District Attorney Kane and Sheriff Kennedy Tuesday Coffey held steadfastly to his story.

The two officers had with them the broken bat which a caretaker had found Oct. 12 in Eagle Point park. The park superintendent identified Coffey as the man who had swung the bat.

Wife of Coffey, who is a woman and the bat was found on the site of the tent the couple had pitched.

COFFEY'S STATEMENT
The broken bat was lying on a table when Coffey was taken into the room where the Iowans waited to question him. As soon as he saw it, he blurted out "That's not the bat. I own a I kid her with a boy's bat. It was smaller and it was not broken when I left that night."

Before Mr. Kane could question him, Coffey offered the following statement: "I have nothing more to say until Wisconsin is through with me. I wish to remain silent now. I have confessed a terrible crime and I have told you all that it happened in Wisconsin. There is nothing more to tell. After Wisconsin is through with me, perhaps I will be willing to talk to you."

Coffey asked that he be held in the vicinity of the river shore where he said he camped and was asked to identify the spot. He did not do so.

CALL MASSMEETING TO DISCUSS SNOW REMOVAL
Prompted by dozens of telephone calls in the last few weeks, the roads committee of the chamber of commerce will hold a public meeting at 8:15 Tuesday evening at Hotel Northern to discuss ways and means of having Outagamie-co keep its roads open next winter. The meeting was called by J. J. Plank, chairman of the committee, and is open to anyone interested. Suggestions will be offered and a discussion of methods of keeping the highways clear will occur. The hearings are expected to attend.

The project has been given for this year, it is said, but an attempt will be made to get an early start for next year. This year no thought was given to the matter until after the snow fell.

LAWRENCE GREEKS ORGANIZE TO GRIP COLLEGE POLITICS

New Political Combination of Fraternities Arouses Ire of College Editor

Five fraternities at Lawrence college have combined in a formal organization for political purposes and have announced their platform. Although rumors of the "ring" had been heard on the campus for several months, no definite announcement has been made previously by the fraternities. The groups joined in the organization are Theta Phi, Beta Sigma Phi, Sigma Phi Epsilon, Phi Kappa Alpha, and Psi Chi Omega.

The program of the organization follows: "Open campus politics, announcement of nominations, before elections, public campaigns for office, the best man for office, improvement of rushing conditions to facilitate cooperation among fraternities, and support of all programs for the best interests of Lawrence."

As politics do and always shall exist on the Lawrence campus as long as there are two factions, the combination aims to make these politics "as clean as possible." They state they "are determined to go on with our organization to fight for open and above board campus politics."

An editorial in the Lawrentian decides the new organization. It claims that the group entirely eliminates the largest part of the student body—the 1927 sorority girls, and the 400 non-Greeks.

The editorial continues "The caucus states that its whole organization is founded upon mutual trust of one another." Is it too Utopian to ask why eight fraternities, nine sororities and 400 non-Greeks can't form an organization founded upon mutual trust of one another? As long as the newly-founded organization has extended an open hand to anyone in sympathy with its purpose, we would suggest that all those who are, and we believe this takes in practically the whole enrollment of the college, attend the caucus meeting and help decide who is the "best man for the office."

The organization was founded in the spring, but was kept a secret by the fraternities entering the pact, the announcement stated.

Men Despise Paying Out Alimony, Opines Shannon

One of the most obnoxious duties that can be inflicted on a man is the payment of alimony.

So opines Harry A. Shannon, clerk of circuit and municipal courts, and diligent accountant of the Outagamie Alimony club.

The average man will, if opportunity is afforded, relinquish his rights to club membership through default of dues. Mr. Shannon has observed. If the whereabouts of the delinquent member are known, he is not only informed that his dues are past due, but he is strongly urged to place himself under the good graces of the accountant again. No members are automatically dropped from this club for non-payment of dues.

Membership of the Outagamie Alimony club now numbers approximately 140. It is estimated by Mr. Shannon.

HOLD FOUR MEETINGS FOR PHONE CO. EMPLOYEES

Four annual meetings of managers and plant men of the Appleton district of the Wisconsin Telephone Co. will be held this week under the direction of F. N. Belanger, district manager. The first of the series was held at Sheboygan Tuesday, and others will be Green Bay, Wednesday, Oshkosh, Thursday, and Appleton, Friday. About 70 men are expected at the Appleton meeting.

General officers from Milwaukee are scheduled to speak at the meetings. Four sessions are held in this district for the convenience of the individual exchanges. There are 31 exchanges in the district.

Meetings will be held at the Hotel Appleton Friday, luncheon will be served at the Conway hotel and dinner at Hotel Northern.

DON'T LOOK FOR BIG CROWD AT STOCK FAIR

Not many farmers are expected to attend the regular monthly stock fair at the Stock Fair grounds on S. Walnut next Saturday morning. Because of the cold weather and the poor condition of the roads not many farmers will take their young hogs to the city. For the same reason the buyers probably will wait until next month to do their heaviest buying.

STATE Y. M. C. A. HAS BIGGEST YEAR IN ITS HISTORY

Association Points With Pride to Its Achievements in 1926

Milwaukee — (AP)—Opening of the new $550,000 building at Janesville, and organization of a new student association at Stevens Point, and the Waukesha-co association, are included in the accomplishments of the Wisconsin Young Men's Christian association in 1926 which is described as the banner year in the history of the organization.

HIGHWAY BUILDERS MUST BE ENGINEERS AND BUSINESSMEN

Close Cooperation Between Business and Engineering Is Essential

Madison — (AP)—Mechanical builders of roadways lined the capitol square Wednesday as exhibitors mustered forces for the third day of the annual road school conducted by the Wisconsin highway commission.

More than 700 representatives of state, county and city commissions were registered for the sessions, which will continue for two more days.

Addresses by leading highway men of the state occupied the greater part of the assembly periods, with J. R. McLean, Superior, division engineer, advocating closer cooperation between contractors and engineers.

"Highway work has often been referred to as the largest cooperative industry in the world," he said, "and it might be well to add that there is no industry where cooperation is more essential to success. The contractor may have unlimited resources, any amount of equipment, and an organization that cannot be equalled, and in spite of these advantages quit the highway field due to the failure of the engineering department to function in a business-like way."

"We have always felt that the work of building highways is a business

the same as that of building railroads or manufacturing machinery, and that as such it should be conducted in the same business-like way; in other words, that the men in charge of this work should be first of all good business men and then good engineers.

Frank Chare, plan engineer, stated that a major problem of the modern highway engineer was that of relocation. "Generally speaking," he said, "the problem would be a simple one if the pure engineering features only were to be considered. Usually, however, there are local interest affected, all of which must be satisfied, and often the engineer is between the devil, in the form of an irate property owner, on the one hand, and the deep sea, in the form of an impossible location of the road, on the other. The engineer must consider all of the possible aspects of the situation, always remembering that while a displeased property owner will ultimately die and be forgotten, a poor location will stay so perhaps forever."
